British General Warns Indonesians To Disarm Or Face His Full Might

Fear Dutch Landings On Java

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A British commander in an ultimatum tonight ordered Indonesians at the Soerabaja naval base and other areas of east Java to surrender their arms by 6 a. m. Saturday or face "all the naval, army and air forces under my command."

"All Indonesians who are not willing to follow these orders will be responsible for the bloodshed which will definitely result," Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh, commanding Allied forces in the eastern part of strife-torn Java, declared.

With 100,000 Indonesians reported massing in central Java, the Indonesian-controlled Soerabaja radio summoned nationalist forces to resist any attempt by Dutch troops offshore to reinforce the British Indian units holding a fortified zone at the Soerabaja base, scene of bloody skirmishes last week.

BLOODY FIGHTING

The ultimatum, which one Indonesian said might provoke "terrible bloodshed," was issued after a day of bloody fighting on the outskirts of Batavia in which 15 Indonesians were killed and two British Indian and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

Mansergh's letter to the Indonesian governor said: "You are hereby advised that Allied troops will enter the city and neighborhood of Soerabaja and other areas in east Java.

"I have been ordered by the commander in chief of Allied forces in the Netherlands East Indies (Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison) to disarm the lawless mob, so that normal life in the city may continue, and the Allied policy of evacuation of Allied nationals and disarmament of Axis forces can be implemented.

"It is my intention to effect this disarmament and restore normal conditions at an early date."

A force of 100,000 Indonesians was reported in the area of Jogjakarta, ancient Java capital 175 miles southwest of Soerabaja. Gen. Supradyi, their commander in chief and Lt. Gen. Uri had broadcast an appeal earlier today for former Netherlands East Indies military training instructors to report for duty at Jogjakarta.

CABINET SESSION

The cabinet of President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic met tonight in an emergency session at Batavia to consider the turn of events.

They had received copies of pamphlets the British plan to drop by plane upon Soerabaja tomorrow giving specific directions to the Indonesians on how they must yield their arms, and stating the reason.

In today's battles on the outskirts of Batavia British tanks crashing into the jungles broke up an attack by 1,000 Indonesian youths on an internment camp. Fourteen Indonesians were killed, and two British Indian soldiers

PEPPING UP FOR THE BIG BATTLE—When Tech High and Boys High meet on the gridiron it's a case of the irresistable force meeting the immovable object. But they clash annually. Here is a scene of the Tech High pep meeting, held under the trees in Piedmont park, and as the Tech High followers made their last-minute plans for the big clash which will occur at 8 p. m. today at Ponce de Leon park. Thousands will see them.

Subsidies On Food On Way Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(UP) Stabilization Administrator John C. Collet announced tonight that nearly all food subsidies will be abolished by next June 30 and that while some food costs will rise as a result the over-all cost is not expected to increase.

Subsidies were invoked during the war to spread food costs among all consumers and to stimulate production. They have cost the taxpayers about $1,798,000,000 annually. They will be terminated except on sugar, oil seeds, and to non-processing slaughterers, Collet said.

Some food prices will be allowed to rise to compensate producers for loss of the subsidies, he said.

SAYS COST DOWN

He estimated that the cost of living has risen 3.2 per cent since May, 1943, while food costs have declined 1.5 per cent. In view of this, he added, there must be a "careful synchronization with decreases which already have occurred in food costs and may be expected to occur in prices of non-subsidized items."

It was revealed elsewhere that government studies indicate that removal of the payments may result in these increases:

Milk, 1.3 cents a quart; bread, one cent a loaf; cheese, 4.8 cents a pound; flour, 8.8 cents per 10 pounds; two top grades of beef, one cent a pound; pork, 4.4 cents a pound; grapefruit juice, 2.6 cents for a number two can; prunes, 4.2 cents a pound, and raisins 6.2 cents a pound.

Butter prices were increased five and six cents a pound Nov. 1 when the federal subsidy was abolished.

SUBSIDY SCHEDULE

Collet outlined this schedule for the end of the subsidies:

Canned grapefruit juice, which has cost $6,000,000 a year—the subsidy expires automatically with the selling of the 1944-45 crop and will not be renewed.

Vegetable shortening, costing about $1,000,000—to end not later than Dec. 31.

Cheese, costing about $29,000,000—to be terminated not later than Feb. 28, 1946.

Pork—Rollback subsidy of $1.30 per 100 pounds to end not later than March 31, 1946. The remaining pork subsidy, now 40 cents per 100 pounds, to end not later than June 30, 1946.

To end not later than the end of the 1945 crop season: Canned and frozen vegetables, which have cost about $39,000,000 for civilian sales; dry edible beans, $4,600,000; prunes, $7,400,000, and raisins $14,200,000.

To be terminated not later than June 30, 1946: Payments to dairy farmers, costing about $534,000,000; regional fluid milk subsidy (costs not available), feeder cattle

HUNGER STRIKE ENDS—Love for her master, Cpl. Jack Smith Jr., now overseas, caused Mitzi, his boyhood pet, to stage a hunger strike which terminated yesterday with Mitzie's death. This picture of Smith and the dog was made when Mitzi was declared the "All-American dog" in a contest staged by The Constitution.

GONE TO DOG HEAVEN

Mitzi Dies Grieving For Master Overseas

By ROLFE EDMONDSON

Mitzi is gone—gone to dog heaven, if there is such a place, and there are millions of dog lovers who are convinced there is.

Those who knew Mitzi say she is a casualty of war and that she died of grief—grief for her master, Cpl. Jack Smith Jr., a radio operator with the Air Transport Command.

Mitzi ceased to breathe yesterday while lying on her specially made bed at the home of Cpl. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith Sr., at 985 Carmel avenue, N. E. She had been on a hunger strike ever since her master left Atlanta nearly four weeks ago for a port of embarkation.

They didn't tell Mitzi that her master and companion on many a playful romp through the Highland avenue and the Little Five Points section was going overseas. She knew it.

For more than two years Mitzi's master has been in the Army. He has been stationed on posts in all parts of the United States, but he has never been stationed too far away from home to phone at least once a week, talk to Mitzi and give that high-pitched whistle that Mitzi knew and loved, then to tell her to roll over and to say her prayers.

As Mitzi would hear the voice coming from the telephone receiver, she would obey the command to the very letter, just as she did in those good old days before anyone thought of Pearl Harbor, a sneak attack or a stab in the back.

Mitzi was trained to obedience, for when she was still a very young dog she won a Constitution-sponsored All-American dog show at Piedmont park.

Now Cpl. Smith is somewhere in the European theater. He does not know that the last meal Mitzi ate was the one he fed to her just before leaving to catch a plane at the Municipal Airport. He does not know that Mitzi that day stood on the front porch, peering through the screen wire as the automobile bearing him away disappeared over a hill. He does not know that when Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned from the airport they found Mitzi curled up in her bed out on the back porch, and from that moment on Mitzi lost interest in things about the house and scorned the choicest and most tempting dishes that loving hands could prepare.

But as Cpl. Smith soars through the air today, as duty takes him from place to place, hovering near his plane will be the spirit of Mitzi, the dog who loved to romp and play with her red-headed master, and the dog which was satisfied as long as she could hear his voice over the phone occasionally.

Red General Stops Riot Before Romanian Palace

By FRANK O'BRIEN.

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 8. (AP)—Romanian troops fired machineguns pointblank into crowds at the Royal Palace today until a Russian general intervened, silenced their fire and halted a furious riot between Communists and supporters of King Mihai.

I saw at least six persons fall when the troops machinegunned a crowd at one entrance to the Royal Square. First estimates said at least five persons were killed and nearly 100 wounded.

Soviet Gen. Susa Ikov, head of the Allied Control Commission in Bucharest, ordered the Romanian troops to cease firing, thus breaking up the bloodiest part of a six-hour riot between Communists and demonstrators holding a forbidden celebration of the king's birthday.

For hours guns barked, fists flew and several trucks were overturned in the milling riot which started when Communists charged the crowds celebrating Mihai's 24th birthday anniversary.

The demonstration had been banned by the Soviet-supported government of Premier Petru Groza, long at odds with the young monarch.

Fifteen truckloads of Communists, waving clenched fists and shouting "Long live the Groza government," roared into the square and tried to disperse the crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 Mihai supporters.

Fist fights started at 9:45 a. m. Just after noon the first shots were fired from the direction of the ministry of the interior, which faces the Royal Square.

The Communists returned the fire, and the crowds scattered.

Shooting continued sporadically until the troops fired with machineguns into the crowds at 3:50 p. m.

Russian troops in the city remained aloof, taking no part in the conflict.

In addition to the Groza government's forbidding demonstrations today, a government-controlled radio broadcast warned all persons to stay at home. Yesterday's newspapers said any celebration would be suppressed.

Despite the warnings, the crowds began to gather peacefully before the palace early today. They shouted "Long live the King" and waved Romanian flags and pictures of Mihai, who was reported out of the city at Slanio, 90 miles to the north.

Then the Communist trucks sped into the square, weaving through the crowds.

For a time it appeared the Communists would break up the demonstrations. Suddenly the crowd converged on two of the trucks and overturned them, dumping out the Communists. The trucks were set on fire.

Then guns fired from the direction of the ministry of the interior. The other Communist trucks withdrew, and the Communists fired back at the demonstrators who scurried for cover.

The rioting, which broke out during a solemn Te Deum in honor of the King's birthday, contrasted with yesterday's peaceful Communist observance of the Soviet "October revolution." That observance was sponsored by the Groza government.

SAYS 2 'GUN MOLLS' ROBBED HIM OF $218 DOWNTOWN AND SPED AWAY

A good-looking blonde, who showed experience in handling a pistol, and a female accomplice, with apparent adeptness in removing wallets from pockets, took $218 from J. W. Osborne, of a Shelton street, S. W., address last night in a daring midtown stickup.

Osborne told police he was standing at the corner of Forsyth and Luckie streets at about 11:30 p. m. when a light, swanky automobile pulled to a stop and a woman got out. As she passed him, Osborne said, she whipped out a pistol and rammed it against his abdomen. Almost simultaneously, he said, the second woman walked behind him and delved into his hip pocket. The gun-gal smiled when her companion removed the wallet, took Osborne's hat with her and the two sped away in the car. Not a word was spoken.

Osborne told Radio Patrolmen J. C. Pope and A. M. King he was waiting for a friend when the holdup was staged.

FOR GAME TONIGHT

Tech, Boys High Hold Yell Session

By MARY JANE WILLIAMS.

"Give a yell! Give a yell! Give a good substantial yell . . ."

And plenty of substantial yells will come from Ponce de Leon Park tonight, for the student bodies of Boys High and Tech High have been practicing up for the annual football contest between their teams.

Gathering around crackling bonfires in Piedmont Park on alternate nights, the supporters of the two schools have been brushing up on their game-time conduct—have been rehearsing their school songs, putting the right emphasis on their school yells.

At the final Tech High rally, held on the wide steps leading down to Piedmont Park's baseball field, the students gave a preview of why their game annually attracts an above capacity crowd.

Practicing at the "pep" meeting the Tech boys looked almost alike in the dim firelight. Yellow sweaters adorned with big purple "T" emblems were prevalent along with turned-back collars and small, sporty hats. From under these hats peeped hunks of hair which fell lazily over teen-age foreheads. All boys were there with a single purpose—to work up enthusiasm before the big game.

And the enthusiasm came easily. It grows in fury with each yell. Every time the cheer leaders asked the question, "Are we gonna beat Boys High?" the familiar answer was louder than the time before. It rang out across the deserted field of baseball diamonds. Now and then a "Smithie" strolling in the park heard the battle cry and echoed a response from out of the dark.

Ten cheer leaders, headed by Bobby Harris, shouted through megaphones, urging the group to "give" just a little more on the next yell. Leaders bent backwards as one with a "one, two, three," dropped to their knees and were off with another cheer.

"Are we happy when we yell. . . ."

This was the last gathering before a clash of the rival teams. Last year the Smithies tied Boys High 13 to 13. Each year the respective schools hold rallies in city parks or streets during the week of the game.

"Almost anything is likely to happen at a pep rally," said one student. "Nothing is planned but as we work up the old school spirit we may burn a symbol of Boys' High or have up a war dance. Who knows?"

But the rally continued without burning ceremonies or dancing until cheer leaders and cheerers felt ready to meet the foe.

High School Classic May Be Played in Rain

There is a slight chance that Boys High and Tech High teams may play their annual football game in the rain tonight. Mostly cloudy and slightly cooler weather is the forecaster's prediction for today, with a chance of rain in the late afternoon and night. Temperatures will probably rise from 55 to 72 degrees today.

Yesterday minimum and maximum readings were 50 and 73 degrees.

Motorists Must Obey Parking Law Or Pay 'Arrested' Cars Out of Pound

From now on, Atlanta motorists who park overtime, or park on yellow curbs, may find their automobiles stowed away in the city's "car pound."

For it is now a law that the police department, upon finding an automobile illegally parked, may "arrest" the offending automobile, hook a wrecker onto it, and tow the car to the pound.

Acting Mayor Howard Haire yesterday signed the ordinance passed at Monday's session of council, authorizing the police to take this drastic step.

Erring drivers will find it will cost $5 to get the car out of the pound.

Assistant Police Chief Neal Ellis, in charge of traffic, announced that negotiations are now under way with the Army for the purchase of two wreckers.

"We will not put the new traffic ordinances into effect until we get these wreckers, and get new no parking signs," Ellis said. "I expect enforcement will start within 30 days."

Another provision in the ordinance extends for one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon the "no parking" restrictions now in effect on downtown streets. Instead of prohibiting parking from 7 to 9 a. m. and 4 to 6 p. m. the new signs will read "no parking" from 7 to 10 a. m. and from 4 to 7 p. m.

The new "no parking" signs will be on the streets as soon as they can be completed, Ellis said. He explained that the signs are now being prepared by members of the traffic bureau.

Also, Ellis continued, plans are under way for the police department to take over a storage garage at the southwest corner of Gilmer and Courtland streets. This garage already has been purchased by the city for use as a possible site for a new fire substation.

"Since this garage is already owned by the city and is located near both the downtown section and the police department," Ellis said, "we believe it will be an ideal location for a storage garage."

Ellis said that he understood that both Police Chief Hornsby and Mayor Hartsfield had agreed that the garage was a suitable location. He said that with an expenditure of $2,000 or $3,000 the garage could accommodate at least 75 automobiles.

The two wreckers will be driven by uniformed policemen, Ellis continued, and the storage lot will be operated by a member of the police department to insure safety of impounded machines and the personal property which might be left in them.

Haire also signed another resolution empowering Mayor Hartsfield to negotiate with OPA in an effort to obtain a revision of price ceilings allowed off-street parking operators. Low ceilings which were in Atlanta during a parking lot and garage price war have discouraged private operators from entering the field to provide adequate parking for the stream of automobiles which took to the streets after war's end.

Secret Weapons To Go on Display In Victory Loan Special on Nov. 21

By TINA RANSOM.

Listen for a certain train whistle on Wednesday, Nov. 21, Mr., Mrs. and Junior Atlanta—and we don't mean that of the "Atchison, Topeka and the Santa Fe!"

No, this will belong to the "Victory Loan Special," a seven-car train of the Army Ground Forces which is arriving in Atlanta on that date to bring before you, free for the looking, an eye-opening exhibition of captured Japanese and German trophies of war and latest United States weapons and equipment.

Possibly the biggest attraction of all will be the fabulous jewel-studded marshal's baton taken from Nazi No. 2 Hermann Goering. Loaned for the exhibit by President Truman, the baton was earlier presented to the President by Gen. Alexander Patch, who removed it from the fat air marshal when the latter was taken prisoner at the conclusion of the European war.

The train, with a host of combat heroes aboard, is on an extended United States tour, and will be open for public inspection in Atlanta from 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. Admission is absolutely free—no bond purchases will be necessary and there will be no solicitations at the exhibiton, according to Pat Murphey, special events director of the War Finance Committee.

The "Victory Loan Special," organized in conjunction with the Treasury Department's Victory Loan drive, will be run on the Southern Railway lines.

Train commander is Col. John T. English, and Lt. Sigmund J.

WOMAN'S STORY STARTS HUNT

California Towns Alerted For tum Suden Suspects

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—San Francisco police alerted all California points early today to be on the lookout for two men who may have missing Dickie tum Suden, 3, with them in a late model sedan.

Inspector Joseph Donegan broadcast the alarm after Mrs. Mildred Beer of No. 3 Pinto Ave., Park Merced, reported a three or four-year-old boy resembling the Tum Suden child had come to her door just before midnight, and was seized some time later by two men who forced their way into her home and knocked her down.

She told Donegan she heard a noise at her door and found the blue-suited youngster outside alone. She took him inside, fed him some milk and about an hour afterward called the police.

Three radio squad cars were dispatched immediately to Mrs. Beer's home in a new, suburban residential district in southwest San Francisco.

Five minutes after Donegan had received the woman's call he phoned her back to see if the police cars had arrived. During that interval Mrs. Beer said two men came to the door, claimed they were policemen and pushed their way inside. One struck her on the forehead, knocked her down and held her while the other picked up the boy and carried him to a car parked outside. His companion joined him and the pair raced away with the lad.

The driver of one of the squad cars reported a few moments later that on his way to the Beer home he had seen two bareheaded men in a late model Hudson or Studebaker sedan pull off a park district side road onto the Skyline boulevard.

Mrs. Beer described the man who struck her as 35 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing approximately 165 pounds and wearing a tweed sport coat. The second, she said, was about the same age and weight and about two inches shorter.

A report was flashed to the San Mateo county sheriff's office and a deputy drove up the Skyline boulevard to San Francisco but did not spot the hunted car.

The tum Suden boy, scion of a wealthy San Francisco Bay area mining family, has been missing since Nov. 1 when he disappeared from the yard of his parents' home at Goodyear Bar, a mining community in the high Sierras. An intensive search in that mountainous country was cancelled Tuesday night after no trace of the boy had been found.

Georgia's State Mother, Mrs. Stewart Colley, of Grantville, has been named state commander of the Field Army, American Cancer Society, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, district commander, of Athens, announced yesterday. Mrs. Colley occupies the post held last year by Mrs. Murdock Equen, of Atlanta.

With plans cementing for a half-million-dollar national cancer research program financed by funds from the 1945 campaign, Mrs. Colley accepted the nomination and promised to present educational phases of Field Army work to as many Georgians as possible. She called attention to the national association's "Committee on Growth" which not only investigates cancer, but also delves into the basic problem of the formation and development of living tissue essential to understanding cancer.

Mrs. Colley is vice president of the Women's Society of Christian Service, North Georgia Conference, Methodist church. She resides in Grantville, where Mr. Colley is engaged in farming and mercantile business.

THE BEAST AT BATANGAS

Hundreds of Civilians Forced To Jump Into Wells

MANILA, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's Japanese troops brutally massacred more than 25,000 men, women and children in Batangas province, tortured them with bayonets and forced hundreds of men to leap into huge wells, witnesses said today at trial of the former enemy commander in the Philippines.

Pamfilo Umali, who narrowly escaped death, testified that on Feb. 15 the Japanese took 700 men and "so many women I could not count," tied the men in groups of five and marched them to a huge well where the Japanese ordered the men to jump.

"We jumped as we did not want to be bayoneted," Umali said. "Two hundred people jumped before me and 100 after me. Then the Japanese threw many sewing machines on top of us and also huge construction stones. Only seven of us survived when the Japs had finished.

"The Japs forced me to jump in the well. I landed on numerous bodies. The Japs fired into the well but I was not hit. The women and children were sent away and I don't know what happened to them. A few of the survivors were later pulled out of the well by women with ropes."

The witnesses said this was only one instance of enemy brutality as the 25,000 non-combatants were "brutally mistreated and killed . . . and the entire settlement devastated and destroyed wantonly."

Victor Manquiat was one of 300 men tied and taken to a second well half a mile from the first.

"One the way I untied myself and then ran just before reaching the well," he said. "The Japs fired and hit me twice but I managed to hide in the bushes. I didn't see those 300 alive ever again. Four days later I returned to the well and saw the bodies, including many, many women and children."

The Japanese rounded up hundreds of civilians of Lipa in Batangas province on several occasions, Briccio Mabiling testified, and once men were taken behind the bamboo trees near the garrison and "I could hear their screams of pain."

He said he never saw the victims again.

On another occasion the Japanese herded 700 people including women and children into a churchyard and took away seven truckloads of men who never returned, he said.

Usebio Linatoc, an 18-year-old witness whose vocal cords had been cut by a Japanese bayonet, testified in a low, hoarse voice that more than 1,000 civilians were taken from villages near Lipa to a river bank south of the town.

"The men were taken by twos between a double line of a dozen Japs who bayoneted the men. I pretended I was dead after receiving 17 wounds, including one through my vocal chords. I saw more than 1,000 bodies." He said he knew of only four survivors.

On Feb. 28 of this year, Cipriano Rodelas testified, the Japanese took approximately 400 men from Barrio Lodlod three kilometers from Lipa and bayoneted them. Rodelas said he "fell unconscious and when I came to I saw hundreds of bodies. Later I found out only six of us survived."

Felix Javier showed the court six bayonet scars on his back and another on his arm, all suffered during one of the Japanese mass bayonetings. He said he found his wife's body after she had been bayoneted and that he saw a little shack burning while the Japanese surrounded it. "I heard women and children screaming within the flaming house," he said.

Site for Big Port Terminals Is Selected at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., No. 8.—(AP)—The city-owned Deptford tract on the Savannah river was chosen today as the site for Savannah's part of the state ports' development.

Location of the terminals was announced by A. O. Stanford, vice president of Robert and Company, Atlanta, which is surveying for the big development. The Savannah facilities of the $12,000,000 state project would cost $8,440,000.

Stanford said that Deptford was ideally situated to provide almost unlimited expansion of port facilities.

Marginal wharves parallel to the river would be constructed to accommodate five or six large cargo ships at one time. Plans also call for construction of a $500,000 cold storage plant to store perishable goods pending their shipment overseas and throughout the United States.

Details were announced at a meeting today over which Judge James P. Houliham, vice chairman of the State Ports Authority, presided. Civic leaders and representatives of railroads serving Savannah attended.

Non-Profit Projects Rate Surplus Discount

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A 40 per cent discount on surplus property purchased by non-profit educational and public health institutions was authorized today.

The authorization is contained in a new regulation issued by the Surplus Property Administration. The discount will apply on the "fair value" of such property.

SPA defined fair value as a price not in excess of the lowest offered at any trade level at the time the property is acquired.

'Roosting Man' Gets 1 to 3 Years

Grady Bagby, who was identified by Fulton county police several months ago as the "tree man" who lived in the woods in the vicinity of the Chattahoochee river, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary and was sentenced by Judge Bond Almand, of the Fulton superior court, to serve one to three years in prison.

Bagby was accused of stealing several hams and shoulders from a smokehouse at Scott's Crossing, near the river, in December, 1944.

He entered a plea of guilty after the state had rested its case against him during jury trial.

"HURRY! HURRY!—Get your tickets while they last," urges Harvey Smith in behalf of the Georgia Victory Loan Motion Pictures division. The occasion is the giant premiere stage show at the Fox theater at 8:30 p. m. Monday, tickets for which will be given with each purchase of a War Bond. Besides the first showing in the south of "The Dolly Sisters," starring Betty Grable, the bond rally will present a mass stage show.

Fox Victory Loan Show Promises To Pack 'Em In

There are still tickets left for the big Victory Loan show at the Fox theater at 8:30 p. m. Monday, but you would do well to get yours today to assure yourself of a good seat, according to Harvey Smith, liaison man of the Georgia Victory Loan Motion Pictures division.

Tickets may be obtained at any bond booth with the purchase of a Victory bond. No seats are reserved, and the tickets do not require exchange for seat stubs at the box office.

The three-hour rally will feature a premiere of the Technicolor movie, "Dolly Sisters," starring Betty Grable, combined with a 64-minute stage show offering these attractions, as announced by T. H. Read, city manager of Georgia Theaters:

Music by the massed Fort McPherson band, under Warrant Officer Leslie J. Benan, and the Girls' Victory band, under Perry Bechtel.

Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," played by the 50-piece Atlanta Symphony orchestra, appearing under the auspices of the Atlanta Federation of Musicians, directed by Albert Coleman. Billy Schaten, medical student at Emory University, will be solo pianist for this number.

Gene Cory and Roberta, Ziegfeld comedy team, now appearing at Jack Sheriff's Theater Restaurant.

Aurora Roche and Carlysle Dancers, and Lou Vogel, impressionist, now appearing at the Henry Grady hotel's Paradise room.

Georgia Tech Glee club, under the direction of Walter Herbert.

Graham Jackson, at the organ, playing "St. Louis Blues."

Purchasers of the Roosevelt Memorial bond of $200 up will be entitled to seats in the loge; of $50 bonds or more, seats on the main floor. Purchasers of $25 bonds will be given seats in the balcony. There are gallery seats for purchases by Negroes.

Police Still Hold Accused Man In Secret Jail

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

METTER, Ga., Nov. 8.—Although the feeling aroused by the double slaying of Sheriff W. T. Brantley and Chief of Police Willie Jones has subsided, State Highway Patrol officials are keeping confidential the location of the jail to which they spirited Alton Murray, accused of the slaying.

Sgt. M. A. Wiltshire, of the highway patrol station at Swainsboro, said today that the case against Murray would be presented to the Candler county grand jury within six weeks and that he would be returned to Metter for trial before Judge Robert H. Humphreys.

The two popular law enforcement officers were shot from ambush with a shotgun as they went to serve a warrant on Murray Wednesday. The warrant was due, it was said, to a complaint made by Murray's wife.

Sgt. Wiltshire said that the shotgun with which the two were killed had not been recovered. It was known to have been in the home of Murray's father, where Murray was arrested by State Trooper D. E. Watson, according to Wiltshire, but had disappeared when troopers made a search for it.

After the shooting at Murray's farm home at Aline, 10 miles from Metter, Murray, 28-year-old farmer, fled, troopers said, to his father's home.

After his arrest, Murray made, according to State Trooper J. T. Mahaffy, a statement admitting the shooting, saying he did so because he didn't want to be arrested. The warrant which the two officers were attempting to serve was for a misdemeanor offense.

The bodies of both victims are in the Kingery funeral home here pending funeral arrangements.

Democrats Win Apparently in Kentucky Voting

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—(AP) Kentucky Democrats apparently captured control of both branches of the state legislature in Tuesday's general election.

Vote tabulations, still incomplete in a number of counties, showed at noon today that the Democrats had 18 seats in the 38-member senate, the Republicans had 15 and five races still were undecided. The Democrats were leading in two of these five contests and the Republicans were leading in three.

The Democrats need at least 20 votes to control the senate and the Republicans only 19, because the presiding officer, with power to vote in ties, is Republican Lt. Gov. Kenneth Tuggle.

The Democratic margin in the house was much greater. Vote tabulations at noon today indicated the Democrats may have 67 to 69 of the 100 seats. The Republicans may have no more than 31 to 33. The party with 51 house votes controls, names the speaker and through him appoints the committees.

To give employment and to get The Constitution equally effective employment . . . A Want Ad in in both cases.

Newsprint Quota Excess Punished

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A possible indication that the government may retain controls on newsprint most of next year appeared today in a Civilian Production Administration announcement that the Pulitzer Publishing Co. has been penalized for alleged over-usage of newsprint.

The penalty set by the compliance commissioner involves repayment of approximately 785 tons of newsprint, with the pay-back scheduled through the last quarter of 1945 and the first three quarters of 1946.

In September, the newspaper industry advisory committee recommended that the War Production Board, CPA's predecessor, end controls on newsprint Dec. 31, 1945.

However, Col. J. Hale Steinman, WPB printing and publishing division chief, has repeatedly stated that the shortage of newsprint will continue well into 1946 or longer.

They Ain't So!---All Stories on Kamikazes

SASEBO, Japan — (NANA) — Widespread beliefs held by the American public about the nature of Japanese suicide pilots are largely fallacious, according to Asamu Nanri, 20-year-old former Kamikaze flier, in an interview here.

The Japanese pilot had participated in only one suicide mission, which was turned back because of bad weather, when the war ended. He is thus one of the few survivors of the "Divine Wind" unit.

Nanri exploded a number of misconceptions:

The corps was not a volunteer organization; men were chosen by lot.

Suicide pilots did not wear special uniforms, nor did they live a life of special luxury before going on their last mission.

They were not locked in their cockpits, although frequently they carried only just enough gasoline for a one-way trip.

They were not drugged nor intoxicated before taking off on their fatal missions.

There was no inducement offered to a man chosen for the Kamikaze corps; it was considered an honor to serve the emperor in this way.

The word "Kamikaze," meaning "Divine Wind," had no great religious significance, as many Americans supposed, but was adopted by the first pilots to fly in the corps and is comparable to the nicknames chosen by American squadrons that called themselves "Red Devils," "Buccaneers," etc.

Married men with families as well as single men were chosen.

Nanri said that most of the pilots carried photographs of their mothers with them. This, he said, gave them the spiritual strength needed for their dive and also "helped them find the target."

Generally only three out of 10 planes sent against a target were actually suicide planes, Nanri said. The others were decoys, used to draw anti-aircraft fire and deceive the enemy. Many Kamikaze fliers flew "decoy" missions before going to their death.

Suicide planes were generally armed with torpedoes, fused to explode when the plane crashed into its target. These weighed about a ton.

"If a family was left in dire straits due to the death of a Kamikaze flier, the emperor might present them with a gift," Nanri said. "However, a gift was never expected, and it was given only in rare cases."

The ex-suicide pilot admitted the superiority of American fliers and equipment. However, he denied rumors that Japanese pilots were poorly trained. Nanri received a year's pre-flight schooling before he went in the air and then underwent extensive training before going into combat.

Mac Orders 300 Atrocity Case Arrests

TOKYO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Arrest of approximately 300 persons on charges of responsibility for atrocities and mistreatment of Allied prisoners of war was ordered today by Gen. MacArthur.

The directive required that the suspects, mostly guards at prison camps throughout Japan, be apprehended by the Japanese government. Then they are to be turned over "at the earliest practicable date" to the 11th Army Corps to be held in prison in Yokohama awaiting trial.

Specific charges against the guards and prison camp officers were not disclosed by Allied headquarters in announcing the names of those ordered arrested.

Stories told by released prisoners, however, have related all types of atrocities and mistreatment ranging from failure to provide medical treatment to starvation, brutal beatings and unspeakable filth in some camps and hospitals.

Headquarters said that "Allied officials in charge of war crimes investigations said they had sufficient evidence in their files to constitute a prima facie case of war guilt against every one of the persons whose apprehension was ordered."

Those held, headquarters added, will be booked "as suspected war criminals" and will include all charged with mistreatment and atrocities against any person of the United Nations during confinement in Japan."

French Elect, But No Action On DeGaulle

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Socialist Felix Gouin, former consultative assembly chairman, was elected president of the chamber of deputies by the French constituent assembly today. Political quarters believed further major elections—including that of Gen. Charles DeGaulle as head of the government—might be put off until next week.

Many deputies want to be in their home districts for Nov. 11 ceremonies in memory of French war dead. If their wishes are followed, their vote on the head of a new government which will draft a new constitution and govern France for the next seven months may be postponed until Tuesday or Wednesday instead of being recorded tomorrow as planned originally.

Party caucuses on this and other matters were being held tonight and DeGaulle was at his country estate not far from Paris.

DeGaulle's election was regarded as more or less a foregone conclusion, but members of his personal circle said if strong opposition developed DeGaulle might refuse to accept the nomination.

'OPERATION' CURES DRINKING

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—(NANA) — Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus has a guaranteed cure for habitual drunkenness, he told a dinner party here recently. His grave scientific discourse detailed the stages in the emancipation of a drunkard from the bottle. Solemnly he entered into the novel surgical detail.

"The surgeons," he said, "separated the drunkard's foot from a brass rail that had been pressing against it for years."

Holiday Is Declared

Chairman Charlie Brown, of the Fulton county commission, has declared Monday to be a holiday at the Fulton county courthouse, in honor of Armistice Day. All offices in the courthouse will be closed throughout the day, with the exception of the county police headquarters.

Summer Activity Center Voted By South Georgia Methodists

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The South Georgia Methodist Conference today selected Bainbridge for its next conference session and voted to establish a conference center for summer assemblies, retreats and camps.

The conference named a commission to establish the center. Brunswick and St. Simon's residents were reported to have offered property near the famous Wesley oak and cash gifts for the center.

Buildings for housing several hundred persons and facilities for serving meals were proposed for the center. The following were named on a commission to establish the center:

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, Atlanta; Dr. W. A. Blasingame, W. D. Anderson and the Rev. Reese Griffin, Macon; the Rev. G. E. Clary Sr., Savannah; Miss Emily Britton, Camilla; the Rev. J. C. G. Brooks, Waycross; the Rev. H. T. Freeman, Albany; Julian Strickland, Valdosta; D. Abbott Turner and the Rev. Mack Anthony, Columbus; Porter Carswell, Waynesboro.

The conference today called on the churches to pay a minimum of $141,550 for benevolent work during the coming year.

Carlton Anderson was admitted into the conference on trial and the following ministers were admitted into full connection:

The Reverends William R. Rustin, Charles A. Britton Jr., James B. Hutchinson, Mercer B. Ingram, Alvis A. Waite Jr., and Thomas P. Watson.

Dr. W. F. Quillian, Atlanta, southeastern jurisdictional conference secretary, told the ministers the jurisdiction led the entire church in offerings for the Crusade for Christ this year and that "we, as representatives of Jesus Christ in a spiritual way, have not scratched the surface of our resources."

A report on temperance work brought applause from the delegates. The report said dry victories were marked up in Decatur and Sumter counties.

State representative Walter Harrison, Millen, a conference delegate, won commendation for his stand on temperance. He told the ministers "we can vote Georgia dry and we ought to do it."

Harrison also said a bill would come before the legislature in January to eliminate Sunday "blue laws." He said there were interests seeking to buy out Georgia and "bring Sabbath desecration." The state, he said, needs the "blue laws" to protect society.

The conference also went on record Thursday as condemning peacetime military training.

At its session Wednesday evening, the church body condemned the building of large armies as "utterly foolish," but tabled a resolution which called on congress to provide for the nation's defense in some way other than by conscription. The tabled resolution further urged President Truman to lead a worldwide movement to abolish a peacetime draft throughout the world.

Plans for the evangelism phase of the Crusade for Christ, prepared for presentation this afternoon, was a high point of the conference.

SOUTH GEORGIA GOAL

The South Georgia conference will work toward a record of 18,663 accessions, 9,161 of these on profession of faith. The largest number of persons received on faith in any one year in the last quarter century was 8,500 in 1921. The 1945 total was 3,985.

"We can get these people if Jesus Christ first gets us," said Dr. Leonard Cochran of Valdosta, chairman of the board, in presenting the report, which also set forth other goals.

These goals are: Increased church school enrollment, 11,775; converts out of church school classes, 6,013; candidates for the ministry, 20; and new churches to be established, eight.

The Crusade for Christ calls for family devotions in all Methodist homes. A religious census is to be held in each church community, under leadership of the pastors, by members of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

EVANGELISM SCHOOL

It was announced that a school for evangelism for the South Georgia, North Georgia and Florida conferences is to be held in Atlanta next Feb. 4-7, and will be followed by visitation evangelism schools in each district and a visitation evangelism crusade in each church.

Every church will be asked to hold a revival meeting and every pastor in the conference will be asked to help other churches for ten days to two weeks in revival meetings.

The Rev. W. A. Kelley, of Tifton, one of the leading members of the conference, will give up his pastorate to devote his full time to the conference-wide program.

The first phases of the Crusade for Christ movement in the South Georgia churches will be directed toward reclamation of non-resident church members through their nearest churches.

Barker Favors Veterans' Hospital Program

"The veterans' hospitalization program will mean much to our ex-servicemen and women in the convenience and quality of treatment," W. D. Barker, superintendent of Georgia Baptist hospital, said, when he returned to Atlanta from a meeting of the House of Delegates, in Chicago, on November 5th, 6th and 7th, where officers and trustees for 1946 were elected.

He also said a contract is slated between hospitals and the Veterans' Administration so that veterans may receive hospitalization in either governmental facilities or in their own hospitals.

Dr. Peter D. Ward, superintendent of the Charles T. Miller hospital, St. Paul, Minn., was elected president for the coming year; John Hayes, Lennox Hill hospital, New York City, president-elect; F. Stanley Howe, Orange Memorial hospital, Orange, N. J., first vice president; Sister St. John, of the Cross, R. N., B. S., directress of nursing, St. Mary's hospital, Astoria, Ore., second vice president; H. A. Coppinger, superintendent of the Winnipeg General hospital, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, third vice president, and Dr. Harley A. Haynes, of the University hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich., was re-elected treasurer.

Those chosen as trustees were: The Rev. John W. Barrett, Catholic hospitals, Archdiocese of Chicago; Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, of Beth Israel hospital, Boston; Lawrence Payne, Baylor University hospital, Dallas, Tex., and Dr. Robert H. Bishop, of the University hospital, Cleveland, Ohio.

FLIER'S WIDOW WEDS HIS PAL

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8.—(AP) An Army air field comradeship among two bomber navigators and a girl culminated in a honeymoon today for Lt. W. Donald Thompson and his bride, Claire, widow of Don's best friend, Lt. Winfred Thompson, of McColl, S. C.

The Winfred Thompsons and Don met at Selman Field, La., in 1943. Both fliers went overseas. Upon returning home, Don learned Winfred had been lost on a Ploesti raid. He went to comfort Claire, and their old friendship ripened into marriage.

"We're very happy," said the bride today. "I'm sure Win would be pleased."

Auto Dealers Hear Address By H. G. Moock

More than 300 automobile dealers gathered at the Ansley hotel yesterday for the annual convention of the Georgia Automobile Dealers' Association and to hear an address by Harry G. Moock, vice president of the Plymouth Motor Corporation and director of the Chrysler Conference of Business Management, speak on "Where Do We Go From Here?"

"Service is going to play an important part in future dealer business," the speaker said. "Many dealers ceased operation in 1941, but others, with clear heads and their feet on the ground, decided to stick it out."

"Suffice it to say," continued Moock, "the dealers who chose to say in business are stronger financially, materially and spirtually. They have the good will of their customers and will be ready for future business. They did a great job keeping automobiles rolling during the war, and they are now getting ready for the sale of cars and good service to their customers."

At the luncheon session, John E. Smith, well-known Atlanta Chevrolet dealer, spoke to the group praising Moock and discussing some of the automobile dealers' problems. Said Smith, "The CIO is undertaking not only to raise wages but to price automobiles. The small business men, of which we are all members, must work together to protect our rights." He appealed especially to the younger members to co-operate with one another and to support the organization to promote business among themselves.

Charles H. Yates, president of the Yates Motor Co., of Macon, was elected president of the Georgia Automobile Dealers' Association for the ensuing year to replace the retiring president, A. O. Mitchell, president of Mitchell Motors of Atlanta. The other newly elected officers were: 1st vice president, A. M. Costley, of the East Point Chevrolet Co.; 2d vice president, Robert Cowart, of the Haley-Cowart Motor Co., of Douglas, Ga., and treasurer, A. M. Chandler Jr., of A. M. Chandler, Inc., of Decatur.

A. O. Mitchell, the retiring president, was presented two silver bowls for his service to the organization.

Shoe Repair Ceilings To Be Revealed Today

Dollar and cent ceiling prices on the most common shoe repair services become effective Nov. 10 in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia, the Regional Office of Price Administration in Atlanta has announced.

These services include such repairs as half-soles, leather heels, and leather toe tip services, the agency said.

This action, based upon a survey of prices in the shoe repair establishments, is designed to restore March, 1942, price levels as nearly as possible, it was reported. The survey revealed a slight inflationary trend in prices charged for services.

Representative members of the shoe repair trade in these states were consulted in connection with the setting of flat ceiling prices for such services, the agency added.

Every customer may see the top legal price he may be charged for any of these services listed on a poster which the shoe repairman must place in plain view of the customer, OPA said.

'Silent Singing' First Publication Of Seydell Co.

The first book to be published by the Mildred Seydell Publishing Co., "Silent Singing" by Suzanne Keener, is on the store shelves and will be reviewed by Mrs. Robert Church Wednesday at Davison's. Mrs. Seydell and Miss Keener will be present, and the writer will autograph her book.

With a foreword by Ollie Reeves, poet laureate of Georgia, the book contains 60 poems by Miss Keener, who wrote the poems during an interval of rest from her concert singing.

"Suzanne Keener," says Reeves, "has interpreted the works of the great musicians, as a concert singer and member of The Metropolitan Opera Company, bringing happiness to thousands with the beauty of her voice.

"How splendidly she sings 'silently' the reader will discover to his delight. . . . I feel sure they (the poems) will live."

On the cover, John E. Drewry, dean of the Henry W. Grady school of journalism, points out the close relationship between a poet and a singer.

Mrs. Seydell, an Atlantan well known in literary circles throughout the country as a journalist and author, said she expects to publish several books a year.

Mrs. Seydell and Miss Keener will be guests of honor at the Macon Woman's Club luncheon today.

Duff Mystery Death Going To Grand Jury

Solicitor General Roy Leathers, of the Stone Mountain superior court circuit, said yesterday that the mystery surrounding the death of Joseph W. Duff, telephone company executive whose charred body was found in a burning automobile on Moreland avenue three weeks ago, will be dropped in the lap of the DeKalb county grand jury for solution.

The grand jury convenes Dec. 3 for its next term.

Robert F. Johnson, a plumbing company employe, was ordered held on a murder charge by a DeKalb county coroner's jury that investigated Mr. Duff's death.

Johnson, who was found in the vicinity shortly after the body was discovered at 2 a. m. in the burning car parked at 1156 Moreland avenue, was declared to have made three varying statements to police in attempting to explain his presence there. In one statement he admitted having been with Mr. Duff at a Highland avenue beer parlor the night before the tragedy. He later said he was riding with Mr. Duff on the Macon highway and "passed out," remembering nothing more until he heard a horn blowing and found himself in the neighborhood where the car was burning.

In an autopsy report, Dr. Herman Jones, Oglethorpe toxicologist, said he found traces of atrophine, a deadly drug, in the stomach. Atrophine, Dr. Jones said, is a commonly used drug that is often found in cold preparations and is often used by doctors in dilating patients' eyes.

Dr. Jones' report went on to place the time of Mr. Duff's death at approximately two hours before the fire was discovered, and declared that not enough alcohol was found in the stomach to indicate that Mr. Duff had been overly intoxicated at the time of death.

Medical Students Seek Return of Teachers Who Quit

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Civilian students at the Louisiana State University Medical School joined today in a petition which declared they did "not see how the school can continue to operate" unless a satisfactory agreement is reached with 27 faculty members who recently resigned.

The petition was presented to a special five-man fact-finding committee appointed by supervisors to investigate a controversy at the medical school. E. Monnot Lanier chairman of the committee, said the statement contained the signatures of all the student body except Army and Navy trainees who are prevented by regulations from taking part.

The faculty members have resigned in a controversy which developed after the appointment of Dr. Wilbur C. Smith to succeed Dr. B. I. Burns as dean of the medical school.

SHORTAGE OF TOYS

Yule Poultry Will Abound In England

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(UP)—The first British peacetime Christmas in six years will be observed with plenty of turkeys, ducks, chickens and geese, but the absence of war has not made the gift shopper's job any easier.

Ministry of food officials have promised extra poultry for 1945 Christmas dinners to supplement the 1,400,000 turkeys already ordered. In addition, wines and brandies from other countries are expected at "reasonable prices."

But there will be some food shortages for civilians. These will include dried fruits and nuts, sausages, offals, marmalade, suet, vinegar, custard powder, lime juice, spaghetti and white pepper.

BUTTER RATION UP

Women preparing Christmas cakes and puddings received good news in the food ministry's announcement that the butter and margarine ration would be increased next week.

Merchants in England, Wales, Scotland and northern Ireland report that Christmas shopping began last month—a month earlier than usual—apparently because people hope to make their bombless Christmas "one to be remembered."

Father Christmas, the British equivalent to the American Santa Claus, will make his appearance in leading department stores' toy sections the last week in November. Toy stocks will be pitifully short, however, compared to those in New York, Chicago and San Francisco stores. Toys have been reduced from wartime high prices and their quality improved.

TOYS SCARCE

For small children, automobiles and other toys are available in small quantities at prices ranging from $2 to $6. For those older, full-size bicycles are being sold for approximately $4.

Christmas cards and calendars are reported to be in good supply despite the paper shortage.

Among items which are rare or impossible to obtain are soaps and sodas, shoes, gas cookers and electric heaters, rubber hot water bottles, typewriters, pillows, elastic, ribbon, fountain pens, mechanical pencils, pipes, all types of leather goods, writing paper and perfumes.

and other Indonesians were wounded.

Another band of 300 Indonesians engaged Dutch troops at Tjililitan air field, also on Batavia's outer limits. One Indonesian was killed and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

British reports said six Indonesian divisions were being formed at Bandoeng, only 75 miles southeast of Batavia. Additional forces of armed Indonesians were said to be pouring into Magelang, about 45 miles north of Jogjakarta. Some residents already had begun to evacuate Magelang.

DUTCH HOPEFUL

Meanwhile the Dutch here appeared to be taking a more optimistic outlook, based on the knowledge that Dutch troops were in ships offshore, and on the hope that the British would give military aid in restoring Dutch power in the Netherlands East Indies.

Indonesians here charged that Dutch troops in trucks machinegunned the Jatingera police station in south Batavia, killing a desk sergeant.

There was additional shooting in Batavia last night behind the Hotel Des Indies, near the pavilion where the American consular General Walter A. Foote, resides. He was not harmed, but several hotel guests had narrow escapes.

A delayed dispatch from Palembang, in Sumatra, said that nationalists had killed a British doctor, a British officer and several British soldiers of an Allied rescue team near Benkoelen last Tuesday. The natives were said to have charged that the British failed to observe terms of an agreement under which they were permitted to operate.

"We are bringing the Army Ground Forces Victory Loan train to your community in order that the people may see and examine the weapons which their bond dollars have purchased, and to bring home to them the necessity of 'following-through' with the Eighth and final loan drive," said Col. English.

WEAPONS SHOWN

The exhibits aboard the train include the weapons and equipment used by the Infantry Airborne Troops, the Field Artillery, the Armored Corps, the Anti-Aircraft Artillery, the Combat Engineers and Medical Corps.

Everything from the giant new "Tiger-Tamer" 45-ton M-26 tank, developed late in the war as the answer to Germany heavy armor, to the infantryman's carbine will be on display and open to public inspection.

The anti-aircraft 60-inch, 800 million candle-power searchlight with its own power plant will be shown.

Multiple, power-operated machine guns, and 8-inch howitzer, parachutes and jump equipment of the airborne troopers, demolition equipment, booby traps, pneumatic boats, medical equipment, combat field kitchen equipment and supplies, automatic rifles, "Tommy" guns, light and heavy machine guns, mortars, grenade launchers, "bazookas" will be but part of the show.

SECRET WEAPONS REVEALED

Many weapons, enshrouded in secrecy until war's end, will be shown publicly for the first time.

Among these will be the new recoilless weapons, of which the 57 mm. and 75 mm. rifles will be exhibited and demonstrated aboard the train.

All the exhibits and demonstrations will be under the supervision of combat veterans—the men who have learned in the hardest school of all—actual combat.

They will be on hand to explain the details of each weapon and to answer the public's queries on how they were used in combat.

SUBSIDIES

(cost not available), beef, $40,000,000; sheep and lambs, $30,000,000, and flour, $190,000,000.

"The government will take all practical steps to prevent windfall inventory profits that might occur as a result of price increases when subsidies are withdrawn," Collet said. Such procedure was followed in the case of butter.

He warned that such profits at the expense of the public are "unjustifiable" and might stimulate producers, dealers and distributors to hoard food and thus disrupt the normal flow to the consumer.

Higher Prices on Milk Foreseen by July 1

If milk subsidies end next year, Georgians may expect to see the price of milk rise, State Milk Control Director George Stewart said.

In Washington this week in the interest of continuing the 7½ cent a gallon subsidy which Georgia milk producers have been receiving from the federal government since 1943, Stewart said that the present subsidies are scheduled to end March 31, 1946. He said he had been informed, however, that there is sufficent money on hand for the federal government to continue the subsidy until June 30, 1946. After that time, Stewart found little hope for subsidies.

The subsidies were given milk producers to ease a crisis when producers were caught between rising wartime feed prices and no increase in retail milk prices. Stewart has termed the federal payments as really a "subsidy for consumers," with the federal government paying part of the consumers' fair milk bill. If the subsidies are discontinued, it will be up to the consumer to pay higher prices for milk — because the farmer cannot pay higher production costs and sell milk at the same price, Stewart said.

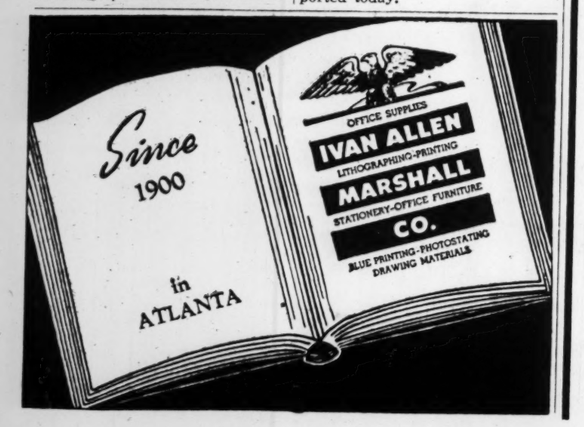
Police Here Asked To Post Lookout

Cobb County Warden John W. Hood has notified Atlanta police to be on the lookout for Herschel Teems, 26, a convict at the Cobb county prison camp, who escaped yesterday and last was seen headed toward Atlanta in a 1942 Chevrolet truck.

Teems is described: Five feet, eight inches tall, weight 135 pounds, blue eyes and brown hair. He was serving a sentence of two to five years on a burglary charge.

Tulip Time Again

HOLLAND, Mich., Nov. 8.—(AP) Holland's famed tulip time festival, canceled during the war, will be resumed next spring from May 15 through May 18, Earnest C. Brooks, committee chairman, reported today.



UAW Accuses GM of Unfair Practices

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The CIO's United Auto Workers' Union accused General Motors Corporation of unfair labor practices under the Wagner act today and at the same time asked government intercession in its wage dispute with the corporation.

Vice President Walter P. Reuther said the union's charge against General Motors was based on the fact that the corporation, while "pleading inability to pay a wage increase," at the same time refuses to discuss "its ability to pay" with the union.

The corporation, Reuther said, also refuses to discuss with the union "its profits and its price position."

"This constitutes a violation of the act under Section H (5), which declares it to be an unfair labor practice for an employer 'to refuse t bargain collectively with the representative of his employes,'" Reuther said in a formal statement.

The corporation indicated it would prepare an answer to Reuther.

The union's charge climaxed many weeks of dispute over the UAW-CIO's demand for a flat 30 per cent wage rate increase. General Motors flatly rejected the demand, countering with a cost of living wage increase proposal which the union in turn cold-shouldered.

General Motors has maintained that it would be impossible to grant a wage increase without increasing the prices of automobiles. That has been the crux of the dispute, and the parties have clashed in their economic concepts.

"The doctrine is well established," Reuther said, "that when an employer advances the affirmative defense of inability to pay, the burden of proof is on such employer to establish his inability to pay by producing the cost data on which his plea is based."

"The union," he added, "also is charging that since August 18, 1945, the corporation has continually and repeatedly demonstrated bad faith in that it has refused to consider the union's demands."

Services of U. S. conciliators were asked by the UAW-CIO in a plea to Washington today which set forth that the negotiations with General Motors were "deadlocked."

Previously General Motors had rejected a union proposal for the presence of conciliators. The corporation declared at the time that negotiations should continue in private until they were deemed "deadlocked."

The government's assistance was asked by Reuther in a telegram to Edgar L. Warren, director of the U. S. conciliation service.

Hoyt Wins Honor For Free Service

Fred Hoyt, general chairman of the Fulton county war price and rationing board, will be honored at 6:30 p. m. today for devoting 9,552 hours of free service to that vital wartime agency.

A certificate of commendation to Hoyt and members of the board, from President Truman, will be presented by Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, at a barbecue to be held at Lakemoore, the camp of Wiley Moore, near the Marietta highway.

Hoyt's total of 9,552 hours of service represents 48 hours a week for four years for the retired businessman. Lawrence Weaver, assistant general chairman of the board, has given 5,000 hours of his time to the work.

Sharing honors with these two officials will be approximately 140 others who have served with the board during the wartime emergency.

Closer Labor-Management Liaison Asked by GE Official

By BILL BORING,
Constitution Staff Writer.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 8.—E. O. Shreve, vice president of General Electric Company, in an address before the Fulton National Bank business clinic here today, called on management to "make every effort to work closer and with more understanding with labor."

He cited this as one of the prerequisites to thrusting the nation across the threshold of what appeared to him to be "the finest period in the history of our country and of the world."

"We should attempt to show labor that it has as much or more interest in fundamental economics as management," he declared.

HIGH WAGES—LOW COSTS

Shreve said that the only way to increase the standard of living is to increase wealth and to do this, he said, industry would have to pay high wages and maintain a high level of employment. That would mean, he pointed out, that industry would have to produce more per man-hour and keep its costs and prices low for quality goods and services.

"While we are in a greatly disturbed condition as far as labor is concerned," he continued, "I firmly believe that the labor-management charter fostered by Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was the beginning of a real attempt to take care of labor-management problems on a much more intelligent basis."

CALLS FOR TAX REDUCTION

Shreve called for a reduction of taxes and a reduction in the number of federal bureaus as other measures which would help the country toward an objective of greater economic stability and prosperity. A reduction of taxes, he asserted, would provide impetus to the return of the profit motive and give incentive to venture capital, which, he maintained, has not been in evidence for a number of years.

He called for as speedy a removal of governmental restrictive controls as possible; for the restoration of confidence in a "sane and fair patent policy," and a "decided return to the constitutional method of making laws by legislative action rather than through the medium of the courts."

Discussing the economy of the south, Shreve declared that "there is no doubt that the section is in the strongest position in its whole history."

SOUTH LEADS IN GAINS

He cited figures showing that the manufacturing output of the south increased 700 per cent from 1900 to 1939, while that of the nation as a whole increased only 400 per cent and the nation, omitting the south, only 366 per cent.

"During this same period," he declared, "the South Atlantic states increased in population; increased quite substantially in industrial employment, but decreased in agricultural employment, which, from my point of view, would seem to indicate a trend toward a better balance of the economic structure.

"The south, under fine leadership and intelligent co-operation, has advanced, particularly in the last 10 to 15 years, and is showing a strength of growth industrially which has created a momentum that is bound to carry on."

GEORGIA INDUSTRY

As for Georgia, he declared that the state's 3,150 manufacturing plants (as per 1939) with 158,000 workers and an output of $108,000,000 in manufactured goods "present a very substantial industrial picture."

He commended the Georgia peanut industry for turning its raw material into finished products instead of simply shipping it raw.

Shreve said that General Electric and other large industries have many new items on the agenda that will add materially to better peacetime living. He said that in the fields of plastics and silicon, the latter a brand-new field, vast possibilities are held. General Electric, he said, will build a substantial factory for the production of silicon products.

BANKS SPONSOR

The Cartersville meeting, one of the regional clinics conducted by the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta in the interest of promoting a better balance between business and agriculture in Georgia and the south, was sponsored jointly by the Fulton and by the First National Bank of Cartersville.

Erle Cocke, president of the Fulton, delivered the opening address and introduced the speakers. Leaders of clinic forums were Frank Taylor, James Shepherd, William Matthews and Robert Pringle, all of Fulton.

The meeting was called to order by W. N. Shadden, vice president of the First National Bank, Cartersville, while J. J. Hill, First National's president, delivered the closing remarks.

Mayor R. W. Knight, of Cartersville, welcomed the visitors, while Garnett Carter, assistant vice president of Fulton, presided at clinic sessions.

DEAF CAN READ NEW 'LANGUAGE'

Spoken Words Recorded In Green Light Forms

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A new form of language, where electronic tubes make spoken words visible in green light, was announced today by the Bell Telephone laboratories.

The deaf can read this language. Persons of normal hearing learn to read it about as fast as a foreign language. The tubes also record this sound language on paper in permanent form.

The new alphabet looks slightly like shorthand, but with all characters fat and some a bit fuzzy on the edges. The electronic translator draws not only spoken words, but music, noise, dialects and bird songs. It can be made to record the emotions in a human voice.

The principle is like the one which will be used when, if ever, science makes a typewriter that will record spoken dictation.

WHAT THEY LOOK LIKE

In this language the word "sure" looks like a diving airplane. Five closely resembles the letter Z. The sound S is like a curtain of whiplashes and the word "sissy" is tough to recognize. "We" looks like a tree blowing in the wind. "You" is like a warship with a barrage balloon floating just above its bow.

The meadowlark's song resembles the notes in a musical scale. The thrush song is similar except its notes resemble fat, juicy slugs. The whippoorwill's voice resembles stubby caterpillars chasing each other.

Laughter is a row of feathers. Grunting and squealing a picket fence with occasional cross bars.

SPOKEN ON SCREEN

This green light language appears as the words are spoken on a small glass screen like a television picture; and for teaching deaf children, on a large screen about four feet across, where each green word is a foot high.

Edgar Bloom, born stone deaf, read with fair fluency today before a large audience as words were spoken into a mike by a woman demonstrator and also by members of the audience.

More important than his reading, Bloom learned for the first time by watching the light forms to speak so that other people can understand him. When he went to work on this about a year ago he was unable to take the elevator to the eighth floor of the laboratories. That is the paymaster's floor. He could not say eight intelligibly and for a month always went to the seventh floor, because he could say seven. He has learned to say eight.

Deaf children, it was pointed out, are able to learn to speak clearly only a few words per year. With the speech translator it is expected they will learn faster.

Two girls with normal hearing held a light word conversation over an ordinary phone, with an operator in another part of New York. These girls had studied a year and a half. They talked readily about their homes, grandmothers and Thanksgiving. There was an occasional hesitation and call for repeat.

The electronic tubes pick up the pitch of voices, their loudness and length of time the sounds each last. These they translate into electric current which in turn is converted into patterns in light. Each slight variation in sound shows clearly.

The Newyorkese "noive" for "nerve" looks just as different as it sounds.

The light symbols record errors in enunciation and teach people how to speak more clearly. The devices are also a new tool for useful measurements of sound of all sorts, including hunting for the elusive noise that drives you half crazy.

Atlantan in Bus Wreck Gets $30,000 Verdict

Miss Alma Davis, of a Harris street address, has been awarded a $30,000 verdict by an Athens, Tenn., jury, as result of injuries she suffered in a bus wreck about a year ago.

Miss Davis, a passenger on a Tennessee Coach Company bus, when it figured in a wreck near Athens, received back injuries.

Athens court officials said the verdict was the largest ever obtained in that court. Miss Davis was represented by Attorney Len B. Guillebeau.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

THIS, we reasoned, is no time to offer folks a car that stops with artful face-lifting.

It has been nearly four years since our last new Buick was built—it wouldn't be shooting square now to give you less than our honor-bright best.

So we overhauled our whole factory to advantage it with the latest in war-developed machines and processes.

We scoured the country for the stoutest metals anyone can buy today.

We set ourselves precisions that in some cases exceed those of aircraft engine production.

And we eagle-eyed every one of this Buick's 12,000 parts to see if it could be bettered in any way, big or little.

The result is that through every stunning inch of this bright new honey runs solid, dependable Buick character, honest and uncompromised.

It's in swift clean lines. In seats that are three-persons wide. In stout, time-defying frames and underpinning. Above all—in the lift and life of a Fireball straight-eight that's even livelier than in 1942.

The cars your Buick dealer will have are big. They're beautiful. They're Buicks.

In fact—the best Buicks yet!

China's Military Men To Hold Bandit Suppression Meeting

CHUNGKING, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Chinese government—blocked by land and sea from the Red-held north—gathered its military leaders today for an unheralded "bandit suppression" conference Saturday.

Worried Chou En-lai, Chinese Communist spokesman here, termed the conference "very dangerous," and said the government already had issued orders for liquidation of all Communists in the troubled north under the guise of "bandit suppression."

Defiant Communists nevertheless took this action:

1. Countered a government's "stay put, stop firing" peace plan with demands that all government forces withdraw completely from Red-dominated areas of the north.

2. Demanded that Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, apologize for American "intervention" against the Reds, and reserved the right to demand compensation — its amount as yet unspecified.

3. Forecast a huge government offensive for which, Red spokesmen at Yenan said, 90 divisions already have been massed in the north.

Increasing the tension were reports from Manchuria that no Chinese government troops have been landed at any Manchurian ports. Russians withdrew suddenly from the southern Manchuria ports of Hulutao and Yingkow, it was reported here today, leaving Chinese Reds in control—and leaving Chinese government troops still aboard their U. S. transports which would not attempt landings against certain Red opposition.

The Central government acknowledged battlefield reverses in the fight for the Peiping-Hankow railroad, in which the Communists captured two Nationalist army commanders and forced a withdrawal of at least 15 miles in the area south of Tzehsien in southern Hopeh province. The reverse—in which Communists had claimed victory over 70,000 Nationalist troops, effectively bars any immediate government use of railway.

A steady but unannounced procession of arriving top-ranking Chinese government generals today testified to the importance of Saturday's meeting. Chungking sources insisted that it will deal with "bandit suppression," and Chou En-lai said that obviously it will deal with "the military situation."

The Reds, he said, had incontrovertible proof that Generalissimo Chiang was ordering wholesale liquidation of Chinese Communists in northern provinces, even during peace parleys last month. Chou's "proof" consisted of purported orders to Chiang's generals to begin "full-fledged liquidation of bandits."

A Chinese Communist spokesman at Yenan asserted that more than 70 government divisions have been massed around Communist "liberated" areas of Honan province, and more than 20 divisions around similiar zones in Hopeh province. Government claims that Nationalist forces have remained on the defensive, he said, were "a complete lie."

Chou En-lai, who was to present the Communists' counter peace proposal to the central government in Chungking today, said that he also would propose creation of a neutral committee to investigate civil war conditions and to inquire into activities of Americans in disputed areas.

He would also suggest, he said, that Chinese and foreign news correspondents be permitted to go freely into disputed areas "to see for themselves" the true situation.

The Communists, he reiterated, are not retreating from their firm claim that they have the right to accept Japanese surrenders in the areas which the Reds dominate.

If central government troops, flown into such areas to accept the Japanese surrender, now were withdrawn, the nearby Communists logically could expect to assume control from the fallen Nipponese.

Communist demands for apologies and compensation for American "interference" in China's internal affairs were contained in letters of protest sent at intervals from Oct. 6 to Nov. 4 to American military leaders from the Reds' Yenan headquarters. They were signed by Gen. Yeh Ching-yin, commander of the Communist 18th Group Army, or Gen. Chu Teh, Communist commander-in-chief.

The detailed charges of "interference," according to the Reds' new China news agency, included allegations that:

1. American planes on Oct. 21 strafed "our populace and soldiers" at "Antseh, Shansi province; casualties and damage not yet determined. On the same morning, American planes dropped leaflets at Ku-An, Hopeh province, demanding that "our Army evacuate the area within three days or be attacked."

2. American officers and men surrounded, searched and took over occupancy of the Tientsin office of the Reds' 18th Group Army, Oct. 18, after releasing the Communists but retaining possession of the office and weapons they had confiscated.

3. Among other areas, Americans "invaded" Chinwangtao, northern seaport of Hopeh province, thus "actually interfering with Chinese internal affairs."

The letter containing this accusation added that:

"Efficient measures will be taken by our Army immediately in order to halt such action. If such actions are not stopped, you should be responsible for any grave results."

More Than One Topic for Discussion

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, his Socialist government and its political changes of great significance already in the process of being woven calmly into the fabric of British tradition, leaves Britain today for America.

It is announced he will discuss with President Harry S. Truman the subject of the atomic bomb.

Undoubtedly he will.

But there are many other things about which Clement Attlee will talk.

He will discuss the loan to Great Britain—a loan that is necessary to permit the British to function internationally, especially with this country. Britain's dollar exchange is lower than at any other time in her history and she must have the loan to be able to participate in proposed decisions regarding trade and commerce.

This country slowly is recognizing that Britain as a going concern is necessary to us, not merely from an economic standpoint, but from the practical one of the future and its diverse non-economic problems.

Mr. Attlee also will discuss the future of Europe, including the plan for Germany. France is holding up completion of certain Anglo-American proposals. The fact that for the first time in modern history Europe is smashed and the tremendous problems thereby entailed, also must be discussed.

It generally is forgotten that modern industrial Europe was built and had its being out of the great industrial plants of Britain and Germany. A prostrate Germany, unable to manufacture heavy goods, may be an excellent idea, but not until and unless Great Britain and this country are able to supply the needs and set the factories of France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy and Czechoslovakia going again.

Germany and Britain, in that order, were the industrial arsenals of the continent. You found their machines and engines in tiny Middle Eastern countries, in China and the Balkans.

A prostrate Europe must have either an industrial Germany or some other nation or nations to do the job. We do not want an industrial Germany on the prewar scale. Therefore, we and Britain are left to do the job. And it must be done.

They will discuss, too, the delicate but enormously important problems of the Middle East, of which the Zionist problem is but one.

England and this country both have the responsibility of seeing to it that a Jewish national home is established in Palestine.

How to do this; how to appeal to the masses in the Arab countries and let them know that it means a raising of their own standards and a greater share in their own country, is an extremely momentous question.

The dislocated peoples of Europe, perhaps a million and a half Jews, a half million Poles, many Czechs, Slavs of many small nations, and so on, are a part of the discussion.

Trieste, a port claimed by Yugoslavia and Italy, but important far beyond that disputed claim because it is the gateway and economic door to the whole Balkan problem, will likewise be on the agenda.

There is much for them to say and discuss, most of it more pressing than the atomic bomb.

Hadassah, Daughter of Abihail

Atlanta is pleased to welcome this week Mrs. M. P. Epstein, national president of Hadassah, the woman's division of the Zionist movement.

They could not have chosen a more appropriate name. Hadassah is the Hebrew name for Esther, meaning myrtle. The beautiful daughter of Abihail, probably a Benjamite, is one of the really magnificent characters of the Old Testament.

The Hadassah organization has been part and parcel of the organization which has put into Palestine modern hospitals, modern farm and irrigation methods, and which has demonstrated that Palestine can absorb thousands of more Jews from Europe, where no home exists for them. The living standards of all Palestinians has been raised by the movement and were it not for the gigantic political clash involved in the Middle East there would be no delay in the necessary establishment of a Jewish homeland. Actually, in so far as thought and culture are concerned, Palestine already is a Jewish state. It waits, with understood impatience, the official status.

Those 'Off-Year' Election Returns

Off-year elections never mean very much anyhow. They usually are settled—congressional, senatorial, gubernatorial, mayoralty—on local issues more than on national. The latter are, with the usual few exceptions, incidental.

New York's election was important. It saw a return of the "regulars" of the Democratic party to power for the first time in 12 years. Both President Truman and Jim Farley had a hand in this. Therefore, that election result was important and has a bearing on 1948. The man elected, O'Dwyer, was not the real issue. The Democrats are in the saddle in New York—the old "regulars."

It was important, too, in that it put a spotlight on the fact that Tom Dewey has slid far down hill. He was never a substantial political figure at any time, lacking appeal even to his own party. He rushed into the mayor's race with some fantastic charges which made him look somewhat ridiculous and he received a real rebuke.

Those who took great joy in the defeat of the CIO's Richard Frankensteen in Detroit's mayor's race as an indication the people are becoming more conservative, or are turning to the right, to employ the political jargon, had best think again.

Frankensteen was booed off the stage by members of the CIO when he tried to settle a wildcat strike; he was not popular with the hierarchy of the Automobile Workers, Thomas and Reuther. The American Federation of Labor members worked openly against him. Yet Frankensteen scared the tan off the cheeks of the incumbent machine and polled a really astounding vote.

The 1946 elections will be more significant.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Opposed

Editor Constitution: I am opposed to the military training program that is proposed by our President. My reasons are as follows:

1. The enlisted personnel in the regular Army during peacetime would be the ones actually in contact with our youths. In the past they have not been of a very high caliber. At the present time most of the men who are enlisting are neither high school graduates nor are they in the first three groups in IQ. Many have just been released from rehabilitation centers. They or rather most of them certainly are not qualified to teach.

2. The National Guard men who were the first into battle in the 2d World War were slaughtered not from lack of training but from lack of modern weapons, especially mobile high velocity artillery.

3. During World War II it was found that 17 weeks of training was adequate. There could be no possible reason for one year of training in peacetime except to give more generals jobs.

Editor Constitution: I wish to tell you that Sallie Forth's column in The Atlanta Constitution always brings me the thrill of the day, and when I read Miss Bessie Stafford's reminiscences I lived again every line! The people she wrote about were my contemporaries, and friends. My father fought through the Confederacy and I have seen three wars in these United States. I am the oldest living graduate of Wesleyan College and the oldest member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Sally's column and The Atlanta Constitution still fill my day.

Why?

Editor Constitution: Having my roots in a Baptist background I was startled to read in your columns the report of the resolution of Atlanta Baptists for the enforcement of Sunday laws. From the beginning of their proud history Baptists have been outstanding supporters of religious liberty, and have vigorously opposed religious legislation and all coercive measures for the oppression of conscience.

And of all things, Baptists demanding the coercive observance of a wholly un-Scriptural institution! Sunday and its observance is not even mentioned in the Bible. There is no command there for its observance. Christ did not keep it. The apostles did not keep it. The early Christians knew nothing about it. Why should Atlanta Baptists, claiming to make the Bible the source of their belief, clamor for the enforcement of religious laws requiring the observance of a wholly un-Biblical observance?

He Left Peppers And Two Apples

An old fellow whose clothes smelled of wood smoke and mothballs came in and said, "You must read the Bible a right smart."

"Well," I said, "I do."

"So do I," he said. "I read it to hear the voice of the Lord."

"Well," I said, "don't you tell anyone, but I read it for pleasure."

"Well," he said, "it don't make no difference which way you read it, to my notion. No matter how you read it, you git somethin' out of it."

So, he left me a sack of red peppers and two apples and asked me to come to see him if I ever got up in his mountain county, and left. "My wife," he said, apologetically, "asked me to come in and see just what sort of a feller you looked like. I was kind of curious myself."

I really never thought much why I read the Bible, except that the King James version has such a rolling, majestic, mighty style that it is a pleasure to read it. I never quite understood, although it was entirely all right with me, why they wanted to write the Bible "to be read as literature" when no literature ever contained anything better written or said than the King James version.

Some of it is as direct as a lead in a school of journalism classroom, for instance:

"There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job."

That tells it pretty quick..

In three short verses his character, the amount of his wealth, in detail; his family and his position in the country are put down in clear, concise order such as a good reporter employs.

Or, you can find rolling poetry that reminds you of Stephen Vincent Benet, or Whitman. Now and then it seems to me there is a little bit of Byron, too, such as you find in his poem, "The Destruction of Sennacherib," son of Sargon. It contains a great simile or so:

> "The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold,
> And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold;
> And the sheen of their spears was like stars on the sea
> When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee."

You can find some of the rhythm of that in Solomon, only better.

There is some awfully good war reporting, too. They didn't have bad war correspondents along with the armies of the Biblical days.

Poetry There is no more sonorous poetry or narrative epic writing in any language than in the Psalms. You take the 91st Psalm. There are "lines" in it any modern writer would give his eye-teeth to have written.

"Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night, nor for the arrow that flieth by day;

"Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness, nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday.

"A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come nigh thee."

And, of course, the 23d Psalm, beginning, "The Lord is my shepherd" is one of the really brief, magnificent ones.

There are others.

Old Solomon was good, too.

The plot of "The Song of Solomon" is the "corny" one the "pulps" employ every week. Poor girl, daughter of a widow, loves a poor but honest shepherd boy.

The rich man (in this case the king) comes by and takes her away with his court to the great city of Jerusalem. Poets and musicians praise her beauty. She is given rich raiment and food. Jewels are offered her. The whole glittering world is to be put at her feet. But her pure country boy has followed her and finds her. She loves only him, despite the great temptations, and, b'gosh, back to the farm she goes to be received by the village and her boy friend with praise and rejoicing. She had refused to be a queen for the sake of her love of the goatherd farm boy.

For Fun So, while it may not be orthodox, I advise reading the Bible for pleasure. I mean, to turn through it, reading what attracts you on the basis of poetry or rhythm or great writing.

You will come across much that is spiritual in this process, because that quality is there. There is something for almost every mood.

If I had to set out to read the Bible from cover to cover, as I once did, I would flee from it. But to have the Book handy and to read it for relaxation and pleasure, roaming about in it, is the best way to read it because in that way the Book comes to be your favorite book to read in moments when you are tired and want to escape from noise and talk and irritation.

All of this, of course, is but a personal opinion. It suits me all right.

Men Who Improved All Sorts of Things

Sometimes it is profitable to sit for a little while and mentally review some of the men, and women, you have known in your lifetime and who have contributed important improvements to life, in large ways or small.

It is easy to think of the famous inventors, or bringers of good on wide scale. The Edisons and Bells and Marconis and all the others. It is easy to contemplate the gifts to mankind in the lives of those who have brought the benefits of electricity to former backwood farm areas, the men who have discovered new media for the easing of human suffering and for making smoother the human path through life.

But there are other men, men not famous, but men I have known as contributors to their own circles of affairs, or to their immediate neigborhoods.

Gate Posts There is, for instance, that young Englishman I knew, once upon a time, in Canada. He had come to the dominion to work as a farm helper. He had no money to speak of, but he had a strong body and a keen mind. I have often wondered what became of him in later life.

When I knew him he was working on a farm a few miles away from the Ontario cheese factory where I, too, was a hired hand. We met each other once a week, or thereabouts, usually on the steps of the factory where he came of an occasional evening to sit with others in the cool of the early night, to smoke and talk, as men will talk, of this and of the other thing.

He was a good worker and a nice fellow. The farmer and his wife, who employed him, accepted him almost as a son. So this young Englishman conceived the idea that the little road that led into the farm from the main highway should be adorned with decorative stone fence posts and a good gate. He gathered the stones and the cement for the mortar and built the fence posts after his normal day's work was done. And he induced the farmer to buy the iron gates. And it did improve the looks of that farm immensely.

And others envied and emulated, to the considerable better appearance of that entire end of the county.

Better Stock Another Canadian friend. This time a native Canadian, owner of a fine farm, not far from Ottawa.

He was an enthusiast about fine horses. Not race horses, but the great draught animals needed to work on the farms. He went to Scotland and saw the magnificent Clydesdales and he began to import them, the great thoroughbred stallions. He traded in the animals and, each summer, made a trip to Scotland to bring back fresh stock.

That is many years ago. But who can doubt a lasting improvement in the draught animals of Ontario as a result of the many magnificent Clydesdale stallions he brought across the ocean?

While memory rests in Canada there is, too, the man who opened a new cheese factory in a region so far back the farmers there had never handled money until they got the first month's pay for the milk they hauled to that factory.

Previously they had traded the stuff they raised or trapped in the woods, at the general store at the crossroads, for the few products of civilization they desired. They didn't know it, but the storekeeper had grown rich by valuing the stuff the farmers brought in at half value and the stuff they took away at double.

The new cheese factory changed all that and actually opened that country to new ideas and easier life—chiefly for the farmers' wives. Which was all to the good.

Altruistic Showman There was the showman who, in every city he visited, quietly, without publicity, gave prizes to high school boys and girls who wrote the best suggestions for solving the immediate problems of their city. He must have inspired a lot of constructive thinking—and action—among the high school generation of his day.

There are dozens of proprietors of restaurants, in Atlanta and elsewhere, who fed thousands of the hungry, without charge, during days of depression. With no thought of benefit by publicity.

There are scores of others I have known, lifters in the way of life, not leaners.

You know your own list. Be thankful for such men and women and, if you can count yourself among that list, look back upon your life with pride, even though you have won neither riches nor fame. For to improve life, even for one other, is the only true achievement.

The Alternative

ROBERT QUILLEN

Puerto Rico 49th State?

President Truman recently urged congress to get at the problem of Puerto Rico. He recommended that it consider four forms of local government, and submit "various alternatives" to the island people. The second alternative he suggested was statehood.

He said congress should not submit any proposal unless prepared to enact it into law.

In other words, we should ask the Puerto Ricans if they would like to join our union, and pledge ourselves in advance to accept their island as a state if they so desire. (Hawaii and Alaska have not been offered this high privilege.)

All the world knows we have treated Puerto Rico shabbily since taking it from Spain. Our great corporations have exploited and almost enslaved the people. We took away their chief means of livelihood. Our laws still handicap them. As a result of our stewardship, the people are now the most illiterate, the most diseased, the most destitute and helpless and degraded in all of this hemisphere.

In common justice and common decency we owe them better treatment.

But why should we even consider the idea of granting them statehood?

Being an American state is no small privilege. There must be some compelling reason to invite less than two million "fbreigners" to become a forty-ninth part of the greatest nation on earth.

Except when the issue of slavery decided the matter, other territories were admitted as states only when they showed themselves capable and worthy. And the people in these territories were our people, as truly American as the citizens of the original states. Their first and only loyalty was to America.

The Puerto Ricans are not our people. In the words of the encyclopedia, they are of Spanish origin with a strong admixture of Negro blood. There is a literate white minority, but the great majority is of mixed blood.

(The Negroes were brought from Africa as slaves to replace the native population, which was exterminated centuries ago.)

The language of the people is Spanish. Although they have been granted American citizenship, they do not regard themselves as Americans, but as Puerto Ricans. They look upon us as outsiders—invaders. Their customs, beliefs, ideals and ways are not American, but as foreign as Spain's.

We cannot set them free and discard them, for their island is now incapable of self - support. They would starve. But we can do our decent duty without belittling our birthright.

Hitler a Heel In Private Life, Too

It is now revealed that, in addition to his more notorious crimes, Adolf Hitler (1) refused to pay his income tax and (2) wouldn't even answer his lady friend's father when the latter wrote to demand to know what his intentions were toward her.

There was one thing about Adolf: He was consistent.

He has now been proved guilty of every recognized offense—with the possible exception of undie odor.

It was even characteristic of him that, having led the Reich into the toils of utter defeat, he should go and disappear without notifying his draft board of his change of address.

Incidentally, I thought it was at least definitely established that Goebbels was dead. But that story about Hitler being annoyed by the income tax sounds like a belated attempt to humanize him.

As for him ignoring Eva Braun's pa, what, after all, did a man upon whom numerous armies were closing in have to fear from one old geezer with a shotgun?

It is interesting to note how Hitler followed the same tactics in private as in official life. How well one recalls the fateful day he asked innocent Czechoslovakia up for a look at his etchings.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Pearl Harbor Blame Doesn't Rest on Hull

WASHINGTON.—In its report on the Pearl Harbor investigation the special Army board sought to lay the blame for the Japanese sneak attack of Dec. 7, 1941, on former Secretary of State Hull.

The board claimed that the 10-point memorandum handed the Japanese peace envoys, Nomura and Kurusu, on Nov. 26, 1941, by Mr. Hull was regarded by the Tokyo government as an ultimatum and was used as a signal for starting the war in the Pacific.

Coming to Mr. Hull's defense, both President Truman and Secretary of War Stimson strongly condemned the Army board for projecting such a conclusion. Various observers and commentators attacked the findings as unwarranted.

Since then additional documentary evidence has come to light which shows conclusively that the Hull memorandum had absolutely nothing to do with the Japanese attack.

Three Weeks' Notice Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Secretary of State Byrnes have revealed that in the sunken Japanese heavy cruiser Nachi official documents were found showing that orders for the attack on Pearl Harbor were secretly communicated to the Jap fleet as early as Nov. 5, 1941, or 21 days before the Hull memo.

In a subsequent ultra-secret message, the Japs on Nov. 7, 1941, fixed the exact date for the attack a month later. This took place 19 days before Mr. Hull's note.

The order from Japanese imperial headquarters contained precise instructions to the task force commanders for launching the Pearl Harbor assault.

All of this took place some three weeks before the Hull 10 points were penned. During that time the Tokyo peace emissaries were in Washington engaging in negotiations over the Pacific situation.

The documents we salvaged from the sunken Jap cruiser illustrate conclusively the duplicity of the Nipponese from the beginning. No one can longer doubt that the whole pretended peace negotiations were nothing but a blind to conceal the real purpose of the Jap warlords.

And yet the Army investigation board had the effrontery to incorporate these lines in its report: "It seems well established," the report stated, "that the sending of this '10-point' memorandum by the secretary of state was used by the Japanese as a signal for starting the war by the attack on Pearl Harbor."

The flaw that was obvious in the board's report from the beginning lay in its faulty timing. It projected the thesis that the Jap attack was ordered within 24 hours after the Hull note.

In other words, the Army investigators would have us believe that the Japs were in position to launch a powerful task force on the mission to Hawaii with no more than 24 hours' notice.

The mere fact that the enemy task force left its anchorage in the harbor of an island north of Japan the day following the Hull memo was insufficient reason to jump to the conclusion that the mission against Pearl Harbor was inspired by the secretary of state's action.

Long Preparation It does not take a naval expert to see where that would have been all but impossible. No task force swings into action that easily. The Japs, as we now know, spent months preparing for the sneak attack. They knew where every American ship was berthed and exactly how our planes were dispersed.

They even had prepared special aerial torpedoes for use in the shallow waters of the harbor. The one-man baby submarines they introduced were specially built for the Pearl Harbor attack. It probably took them at least a year to build these subs.

In the face of these many facts, the board would have us believe that the attack was set off by the then secretary of state's so-called ultimatum. It must be apparent to any reasonable person that the Japs were set to strike under any circumstances.

Even without the revelations since made by Secretary Byrnes and Secretary Forrestal, the charges against Mr. Hull did not hold water. What they have disclosed, however, should forever set the matter at rest.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

DON'T CARE TO SEE PLACE

(The Walton News)

Our friend of long standing, L. F. Still, of L. F. Still & Company, Atlanta, Ga., and who has done well in the real estate business, calling to exchange greetings and leave a map "Dated Events War Map," in talking with ye editor, revealed the fact that the situation in Atlanta, regarding the need for homes, was tragically acute—that, recently, he advertised two or three cottages for rent, and that the calls were too many to keep up with, many applicants saying: "I don't care to see them. Just let me call and pay a month's rent in advance," telling tragic stories along with their applications. So, after all, Monroe is not the only place where house shortage is desperately appalling.

Significant Trend In Election Results

WASHINGTON.—The mayoralty elections in some of the bigger eastern and midwestern cities yield some interesting political signs.

They help to explain some of the administration political strategy in Washington. They also hold a warning for Republicans as they map future policies to try to win their way back into power in next year's congressional elections and in the 1948 presidential election.

Their significance is enhanced beyond that ordinarily attached to such local contests by the fact that they were the first tests of any consequence since President Truman entered the White House and since the war ended. They were peacetime elections, fought without benefit of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Outstanding was the demonstration that the alliance between Democrats and the CIO still retains the potency exhibited so strikingly in the 1944 presidential election in metropolitan centers of the larger eastern and midwestern states, the so-called doubtful states where most elections are won or lost.

DEMOCRATS and their CIO allies came back overwhelmingly into power in New York city—no good news to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Democrats held other such big cities as Boston, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, all major contributors to election results in Massachusetts, Ohio and Pennsylvania, as is New York city in that state. The Democrats lost their grip in Buffalo in upstate New York, which is generally Republican territory.

THE RESULT in Detroit was significant chiefly in proving that labor still is hard put to win with a strictly labor candidate. The CIO was not able to do it with the personable Richard T. Frankensteen, a vice president of its United Automobile Workers. That became, in the end, almost a straight-out labor and anti-labor political fight, with all the bitterness such a battle produces.

In the first test since last year's presidential election provided by the mayor elections, Democratic National Chairman Bob Hannegan was working in his own field and on his own ground—the big cities.

AT THE CHICAGO convention last year it was the big city-southern state combination that Bob Hannegan pulled together to put over Harry Truman's nomination as vice president.

This is still the combination upon which Democrats must rely in the 1948 election despite its hybrid nature. This, despite the antagonism of the average professional southern politican to New Dealism and to the CIO, and despite resentment among such politicians and southern conservatives in congress over Mr. Truman's espousal of New Dealism.

The urgent necessity of keeping this strange alliance intact explains some things that have happened here. It explains partly, for example, why the President has tried to please labor—though he has sincere convictions along those lines—and, why, on the other hand, he still hesitates to offend the southern leadership in congress which does not even give lip service to some parts of his program desired by labor. The President is proving himself quite adept at tight-rope walking. Mr. Hannegan has acquired the gift of double talk, too.

REPUBLICANS might ponder this week's elections. They must break into the big metropolitan areas to pick up enough additional congressmen in 1946 to recapture the house, and they must break into the big cities to elect a President in 1948. To do this it is obvious that they must become more than a rural midwestern and small town party. They are strongly entrenched in those bulwarks. But it isn't enough.

Some of their leaders are suggesting a shift to a more progressive course. In this way only, they argue, can the Republicans make any inroads into the labor vote, which is so decisive a factor in the big cities.

This shift, they say, must come in the party's leadership in congress. There the record is made. There is where the voters have been trained to look now, rather than to party platforms and pronouncements. Platforms have been on the progressive side in recent years. But party leaders in congress seem to forget.

HOLLYWOOD—Everyone is waiting for the new streamlined cars. My brother designed a marvelous streamlined car, but the companies wouldn't buy it . . . they decided to keep on making the old-fashioned kind with wheels.

And all the workers who used to be in airplane factories are now busy turning out automobiles. I don't know whether they're having trouble forgetting their airplane training, but the other day a car left the assembly line in Detroit and two hours later the driver got a ticket for hedgehopping over Kansas City.

There'll be lots of marvelous machinery in the postwar world. Kitchens will all have a machine that washes dishes, a machine that cooks, a machine that polishes silver, a machine that sweeps the floor, and another one that rings up an electrician who'll come and explain why the other four won't work.

ADORNING THE DOCTRINE

That they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.—Titus 2:10.

In the Alps there are beautiful flowers growing under difficulties. They have not much soil, managing to grow in crevices near the snowline. The secret is exposure to the warmth and light of the sun's rays. They are a parable of many lives. It may chance that illness, prolonged illness has struck, or other misfortune. It matters not. There will still be joy and beauty radiant if the warmth and light of the Sun of Righteousness shine into their hearts. Not outer circumstances but inner assurance determines whether one shall adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.

"Thou seekest us in love and truth
More than our minds seek Thee;
Through open gates Thy power flows in Like flood tides from the sea."

Greens Have Great Possibilities

Probably no family in the world uses more "greens" per capita than our own family here at Yellow River. By "greens," we mean all of them: collards, poke salit, turnips of every variety, rape, tender greens, spinach, tampala, beet tops, Swiss chard, kale, mustard, and any others known hereabouts. The first thing Susie does in preparation for supper is to gather a fresh set of greens. This she does without asking anybody or getting any instructions from anybody. We plant a new row of greens every two or three weeks from early fall to middle summer, and serve some form of greens at least 300 days out of the year.

Maybe this should have been mentioned earlier and thus avoided considerable abuse. We wrote a piece recently, describing the making of "soup divine." In the making of this unusual sup, the pot-likker from collards (or other greens) is used. We were thinking of the soup, itself, and not the individual ingredients which go into the soup, and we therefore gave the collards to the chickens after they had served their purpose in providing the pot-likker. To read the protests which have come in, you would think that there was only one set of collards in the world and that we had destroyed them.

IN DEFENSE, we would urge the fact that collards are not scarce. If in doubt, the skeptic should visit his green-grocer, or Produce Row, or the Georgia State Farmers' Market at Murphy avenue and Sylvan road. He would find that he can get as many collards as he wants.

We had a killing frost on Sunday night and again Monday night. Susie selected rape for supper on Monday night and turnip salit for supper on Tuesday night. The difference was amazing. Rape must be akin to the collard for it was so sweet that we accused Susie of adding sugar. On the other hand, the turnip greens were more bitter than they were before the frost touched them, a delectable bitterness, to be sure, but bitterness right on.

To kudzu, frost means sleep. To most seed, frost spells hardness and maturity. To collards and rape, it means sweetness, and to turnip salit, frost means bitterness. All this reminds one of the salesman who was demonstrating the thermos jug to a farmer. "It will stay hot," said the salesman, "or it will stay cold, for at least 24 hours." The farmer was amazed and said, "It certainly is a wonderful invention but what I want to know is, how it can tell which to do?"

THIS MAY BE a cue for us. Georgia has had a wonderful growing season this year and there are greens of all kinds, and in profusion. What could be wrong in trying all of them? And in preparing them in various ways? With fat back, surely, but also with country butter. Cooked low in the pot, but also with a hot tomato mixture. Salit omelet, of course, but why not a good souffle. Fried collards, naturally, but why not creamed collard stems?

The next time we write about "soup divine," however, we will make the pot-likker of beet tops, then we won't get so much . . . malediction.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

More About Elliott R.

NEW YORK.—During Elliott Roosevelt's examination by the Treasury in connection with his washed-out debts, he was asked whether Sid Richardson, of Fort Worth, Texas, had ever asked him to intercede with the federal government in any civil or criminal matter. Elliott had borrowed $40,000 from Richardson without security.

"Mr. Richardson did ask me, on several occasions, whether there wasn't anything I could do to stop Mr. Morgenthau from trying to ruin every independent oil operator," Elliott replied. "The threat of the elimination of the 27½ per cent depletion was a most serious matter to Mr. Richardson and he was always complaining to me about that particular feature. I told him if he knew Mr. Morgenthau like I knew him, he wouldn't ask me to go to him because he was the type of individual that such an approach, even on behalf of a friend, would be like waving a red flag in front of a bull."

However, Elliott did arrange a social invitation to the White House for Mr. Richardson in the role of advocate of his, Richardson's, own, independent oil interests. In the final statement of Elliott's debts, Richardson's loans to Elliott were paid, in full, with shares of stock which Elliott had posted as collateral with other lenders and which had been recovered for trivial sums on representations by Richardson to Jesse Jones, that the stock was worthless.

In his schedule of debts, given to Jesse Jones, then secretary of commerce and chairman of the RFC, Elliott did not mention his debt to Richardson.

ELLIOTT SAID he introduced Richardson to his father when President Roosevelt was a guest at a large party at his, Elliott's, home at Fort Worth in the summer of 1937. In the same year, certain Texas "hot oil" indictments were settled abruptly, on pleas of nolo contendere, within a week after another party in the Gulf of Mexico, attended by the President, Elliott, and some of the parties at interest. Elliott was then active in Democratic politics in Texas. The President eluded his press coverage that evening and told the press party, in his bantering way, next day that if he were a journalist writing at space rates, he could make a lot of money. He never told about the "hot oil" party.

ELLIOTT was asked whether he he knew anything about the hot oil conspiracy in Texas and replied, "I certainly do."

He was asked further whether Richardson or Charles Roeser, another independent oil man, who also invested in his radio chain, was "involved in that mess" and replied, "I don't think they were at all."

"Do you remember any of the newspapers reciting that charges were made against oil operators in the Texas hot oil conspiracy?"

"I certainly do," Elliott said.

"Did you take notice of the fact in reading the newspapers, that Richardson and Roeser were among those charged with conspiracy in this case?"

"I knew that some of the individuals in Dallas with whom Richardson had done business had been under indictment," Elliott answered. "But I never knew that either Richardson or Roeser had been involved."

"There were rumors," the examiner continued, "and I don't know whether they were founded on fact, to the effect that Richardson and Roeser were both involved in the hot oil conspiracy and that you interceded with the federal officials and a member of the cabinet in charge of the government oil lands on their behalf."

ELLIOTT DENIED knowledge of such rumors and stated with emphasis that he never had so interceded.

Contrary, or not, to this statement, however, there is the declaration of Richardson, in the Treasury record, that Elliott got him an invitation to the White House which enabled him to intercede for the independent oil men in the role of adviser or counsellor to the President.

At one time during his Texas career, Elliott sent a telegram to one "Steve" at the White House, asking "Steve" to hold everything until he, Elliott, could advise with "Steve" in a matter seriously concerning the financial interests of a Texas power and light company. The "Steve" in this case is assumed to be Steve Early, then secretary to President Roosevelt.

The official memorandum to the commissioner of internal revenue in the present case states that "for some period between 1934 and 1939, he (Elliott) was employed by the Texas Electric Service Co., of Ft. Worth, ostensibly as an 'advertising consultant'; in his 1939 return, he reported income of $12,000 from this source."

"Housing shortage is still acute and applications for living quarters are on the increase."—News item.

The sweetest words of tongue or pen, according to a lot of men,
No matter where they stay or roam, are these three . . . "Mother
. . . Heaven . . . Home."
The wrath of all will be incurred by anyone who says a word
Against the dear and patient dame who answers to the mother name,
But many of us will agree she's not just what she used to be.
We sang about her wrinkled brow, but where are mama's wrinkles now?
Where is the "thinning silver hair," where are the "fingers worn with care?"
The wrinkles disappear, it seems, when fed with proper greaseless
creams,
The cute arrangement of her hair gives younger maidens deep despair
And, for her fingers, be assured, they're very smartly manicured.
Now, as for heaven, we are told its streets are paved with shining gold
But gold has long since had its day and heaven still is far away.
But, oh, the longing in the breast for home, the place where one may rest,
Like little lambs who've gone astray the people walk the streets today
Or seek some sleep beneath the stars in trailers or in tourist cars.
And those who make the big mistake of bringing kiddies in their wake
Will find their lot is hard and sad compared to pleasures they have had.
The sweetest words, the sweetest line to rid the heart of discontent
Are those which used to grace the sign . . . and read "Five Rooms and Bath, For Rent."

Rationing Leaves Its Mark

FORT VALLEY, Ga.—First it was gasoline, now it's shoes. Cash on the line or within 30 days and we can have all we want of both without benefit of coupon. The days of rationing are drawing to a close, and without the shedding of a tear by gleeful veterans of the home front who failed to recognize it for what it was—the greatest incentive to creative genius and free enterprise the universe has ever seen.

At no other period in the world's history has the common man soared to such sublime heights. What, save the rigors of restricted gas, foot gear, beef roast and cigarets, could have inspired the noble spirit of get-or-die, or fostered the nimble wits that will make their mark in the bright new world?

AIRPLANE STAMPS galvanized lackadaisical citizens into such a frenzy of energy that two pairs of shoes per year could not possibly suffice. With one accord the rocking chair fleet took to its feet and more shoe leather; toddling babes toddled earlier, faster and more furiously than ever before. And always on rationed shoes. The slogan, "Can all you can," was taken to heart by the great American public. As one we rose to the challenge and even the time and mental agony required to successfully fill out the formal request for canning sugar failed to dampen the ardor of the applicants. More sugar became the cry of the hour and those who cravenly connect a diabetic population with the canning sugar offensive, have no understanding of true-blue patriotism.

BUT IT WAS the curtailment of gasoline that aroused the latent possibilities of individuals from Maine to California. Characters who had never been heard to utter three consecutive sentences waxed eloquent at the sight of an A book. Thirty-word vocabularies burst their mental bonds and the fusillade of high-powered syllables would have sent Mr. Webster running for cover. Street corner orators blossomed overnight and every filling station resounded with silver-tongued statesmen. The literary arts flourished as never before. Every traveling salesman was a potential poet. Odes and essays were dedicated to the perpetrators of the dastardly deed, while letters to the editor vividly described the sufferings of many a free-born soul forcibly separated from a full tank.

NOR WAS THIS mighty upheaval limited to mental stimulation. Family affection swept like a tidal wave throughout the length and breadth of the land. Asthmatic Great-Aunt Minnie, 250 miles away though she be, was the subject of unceasing solicitude on the part of every member of her tribe. Family trees were combed for ailing relatives who must not suffer from lack of devotion.

Yes, the demise of rationing is not far distant and its only monument will be a dusty file wherein reposes the following: "dear rashun bord—this is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

GALLUP POLL

Army-Navy Merger OK?

PRINCETON, N. J.—American voters who have heard or read about the proposed unification of the War and Navy Departments favor the move by a substantial majority, a public opinion survey finds.

Approximately half of the voting population has heard or read enough on the subject to be able to tell what the term "unified command" means and among that group three times as many favor the merger proposal as oppose it.

In Washington the issue of unification is charged with high controversy, important officials of the Navy Department being opposed to such a step while top officials of the War Department favor it. Both sides have given lengthy testimony before a congressional committee.

THE SURVEY was conducted on the following questions:

"Will you tell me what your understanding is of the term 'unified command' for the armed forces of the United States?"

The results to this question showed that 52 per cent had a reasonably correct idea, while 48 per cent either said they did not know or gave answers that fell wide of the mark.

The group indicating some knowledge of the matter was asked:

"Do you approve or disapprove of a unified command for the armed forces of this country?"

The vote of this informed group:

Approve	64%
Disapprove	23
No opinion	13

WHILE THE issue of a merger has many technical and administrative aspects, the opinion of the man in the street on the proposal is of vital importance for two reasons—it is the people who have to support the Army and Navy by taxation; and the security of the nation, by whatever means, is a matter of paramount importance to all citizens. In any case, whatever decision is reached must eventually meet with the acceptance of the people.

The better educated and better informed citizens throughout the country tend to be the most in favor of the unification idea. People with a college education are not only most likely to have an understanding of what the term unified command means, but also are for the merger by a higher ratio than other groups.

Vote on merger by education:

	Approve	Disapprove	No Op.
College	73%	17%	10%
High school	64	24	12
Grade school or no school	57	27	16

JACK TROY

Another Sell-Out NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The usual 76,000 have bought tickets for the Army-Notre Dame game which will be played Saturday in Yankee Stadium, but not even the most rabid of the sidewalk alumni of Notre Dame believe the Irish have a chance to pull an upset.

Army comes into the game with a pulverizing 200-pound line and set of hard-hitting and versatile backs by the name of Glenn Davis, Dock Blanchard and Shorty McWilliams, to name the three leaders.

Admittedly, Notre Dame has a stronger team than a year ago. But, since the recent clash with Navy, the Irish are somewhat bruised.

Dancewicz has been called the nation's No. 1 quarterback by some observers, and Phil Colella, the star freshman back, may be the freshman backfield star of the year. The first and second-string fullbacks of the Irish teams were hurt against Navy. Also Right Halfback Elmer Angsmann.

Crystal gazers of the east look for Army to keep on rolling along without too much trouble, but expect Navy's unbeaten record to go by the boards.

Navy runs up against a strong Michigan team. For the last two Saturdays the Middies have come through in the last minute to avert defeat. Such good fortune is not expected to last.

In the southeast, the Mississippi State-Louisiana State clash on Saturday night at Baton Rouge will decide the bowl hopes of the Maroons or the Tigers. L. S. U. is favored. Tech is favored over Tulane and Georgia ditto over Florida.

Purple-Smithie Classic Back there in Atlanta those Tech High Smithies and Boys' High Purples will be battling it out in the Georgia high school classic of the year tonight with perhaps 20,000 people straining the capacity of Ponce de Leon park to emphasize Atlanta's great need for that new stadium which, it is hoped, will be a reality in the not too far distant future.

But neither the lack of a good football field nor anything else can detract from the luster of the annual Boys' High-Tech High game. The series has been running 33 years now, and with each passing season the rivalry seemingly grows more intense. Upsets are frequent in the classic, which almost always produces some of the best high school football to be played in the nation.

It seldom matters which team is favored. The result almost invariably is close and the game bitterly fought. This year there is no favorite, however. Sid Scarborough brings his Village Smithies up to the fray undefeated. Shorty Doyal has a typically powerful Boys' High eleven which has not dropped one since its opener to a veteran and powerful Holy Cross, of New Orleans. On the surface there seems little to choose between the two clubs.

The game is deep in tradition. Such fine boys as Clint Castleberry, Judy Harlan, Stumpy Thomason and many others began their climbs to greater gridiron glory in the Smithie-Purple tiff. Shorty Doyal once was a player for Tech High. For 21 years now he has been the Boys' High coach. Tech High Principal W. O. Cheney, who has only a couple more years before retirement, has seen all the games except one when he was in the Army back in 1917. H. O. Smith, who will retire as Boys' High principal after this year, has seen most of them, too. The ghost of old Gabe Tolbert, for many years the Smithie mentor, still is seen hovering near by on the day of the big game by many old Smithies.

It is one of the highlights of the sports scene in Atlanta and one most worthy of the great interest it begets and the great horde of fans it attracts annually. Tonight's the night, and may the better team win. For regardless of the outcome, it probably means a state championship for an Atlanta school.

Three-Time Winner Owner Ed Noble and President Mark Woods, of the American Broadcasting Company, pitched their third annual award party tonight and agreed that it seems to be becoming a habit for Harry Wismer to win it.

Wismer, former University of Florida and Michigan State athlete, was honored again tonight for having been awarded, for the third successive year, The Sporting News trophy given to the best sports broadcaster of the year. Art Flynn made the presentation on behalf of Publisher Taylor Spink, of The Sporting News. The event took place at Toots Shor's 51 West 51st and featured a coast-to-coast broadcast.

President Woods, a native of Savannah, Ga., showed his appreciation for the outstanding work by last year naming Wismer sports director of the network. Wismer led the voting in The Sporting News poll by a wide margin.

There was a great gathering of notables of the business and sporting world here in Little Old New York tonight. They included Bob Hannegan, postmaster general; J. Edgar Hoover, Lou Nichols and Clyde Tollson, of the FBI; Joe Newman, commissioner of internal revenue; James J. Walker, former mayor of New York; Matt Connolly, secretary to President Truman; Clyde Long, advertising director of Bethlehem Steel; Horace Stoneham, president of the New York Giants; Larry MacPhail, president of the Yankees.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers; Steve Owens and Tim Mara, of the football Giants; Lou Little, coach of Columbia; Red Gebhard, coach of C. C. N. Y.; Lou Maxon, Maxon Advertising Agency; Lou Coleman, vice president of A. G. Spalding; Bill Kiley, vice president of Wilson Sporting Goods; Paul Warwick, advertising; Sam Corenswet, representing the New Orleans Sugar Bowl; Craig Smith, vice president of Gillete; from the fistic fraternity, Commissioner Eddie Egan, Mike Jacobs and Jimmy Johnston; New York's Mayor-elect Bill O'Dwyer and Speros Skouras, president of Fox Films.

Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler was due to be among the late arrivals.

BUILDING TO A CHAMPIONSHIP?—All year long these Tech High backs have been pyramiding the touchdowns and the victories, and on them will fall the task of getting the points for Sid Scarborough's so-far unbeaten Village Smithies if they are to down Boys' High and clinch the 1945 GIAA crown in the prep classic of the year here tonight. Bottom row (left to right) are Gene Huddleston, Jimmy Cash, Bobby North; second row (left to right), Joe Parks, Joe Wilson. On top is Co-Captain Pierce McWhorter, triple-threat fullback.

20,000 Will See Battle Of Smithies and Purples

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The stakes are piled high on the table, and it will be winner take all on one toss of the dice and one smile from Dame Fortune.

That, figuratively speaking, is the tense situation as Boys' High and Tech High, both undefeated in GIAA play this year, take the field for a battle to the death in their 33d annual meeting before an expected 20,000 fans at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park.

Coach Sid Scarborough's Village Smithies, undefeated in eight games, can clinch the 1945 state class A championship, with a victory. On the other hand, Shorty Doyal's Purple Hurricane, GIAA crown winners in six of the last seven years and eight of the last 11, can be assured of at least a tie for the titl with a triumph. Should the Hurricane prevail tonight and bow to Lanier in Macon next Friday, Tech High, Boys' High and Lanter would be in a virtually tie for the gonfalon.

NO INJURIES

Neither team has any injuries of consequence and both are set and ready for the fray. The game has been rated a toss-up by the gambling fraternity. Boys' High has won eight straight since losing its opener to powerful Holy Cross, of New Orleans. The Smithies have lost to no one in eight outings. The Purples have tallied 267 points to 43 by their nine foes. The Smithies have rolled up 163 tallies to 39 for eight opponents.

The two teams have faced four common foes. The Blacksmiths thumped Marist, 12-7; Robert E. Lee, of Jacksonville, 7-6; Savannah, 6-0, and GMA, 20-0. Boys' High humbled Marist, 20-0; Robert E. Lee, 32-6; Savannah, 32-0, and GMA, 48-0. However, the Smithies played Savannah in ankle-deep mud and Robert E. Lee after two gruelling bus trips and five days after another tough game.

The game literally reeks with tradition. The ghosts of such greats as Judy Harlan, Bill Fincher, Billy Paschal, Stumpy Thomason, Warner Mizell, Buster Mott, Clint Castleberry, Duck Conger, Billy Mims, Pete Ford, Malon Courts and many others will be haunting the scene in which they once played important parts.

The Smithies hold an 18-14 lead in games won and lost, counting one forfeit and a post-season Milk Bowl game, but since Shorty Doyal has been head man in Purpletown it has been another story. His teams hold a 13-7 edge.

TWO RUGGED LINES

Both teams have rugged lines. The Purple forewall is spearheaded by Center Red Little, Guard Ewell Pope, Tackle John Pantaze and Ends Jack Griffin and Charlie Whitt. The Smiths have Guards Bob Greer and Bob Ledbetter, Tackles Bill Otwell and Wilbur (Brute) Force, and Ends Sid Williams and Joe Fox to do heavy duty up front.

The Purples, in contrast to other years, depend on power plus to move along the ground. Porter Payne, 190-pound fullback, and Jim (Moose) Ryckeley run with exceptional power. The Smiths have one of the greatest all-round backs in Dixie in triple-threat Pierce McWhorter. They have more speed than the Purples this year, with Bobby North, Joe Parks, Joe Wilson and Gene Huddleston all shifty and fast.

The real battle may be in the air, and there both clubs are well fortified. McWhorter is a brilliant tosser and Williams, North and Parks are glue-fingered on the receiving end. For Boys' High, Ed Swanson and Doug Smith are capable flingers and Griffin, Whitt and Ryckeley are as fine a trio of receivers as any eleven in the state can boast.

Ticket buyers are urged to purchase ducats at Reeder & McGaughey, Tom Slate's, Parks-Chambers or at one of the schools and avoid the tremendous rush at the gates tonight.

Three Cage Tilts Slated Sunday At Sports Arena

Two Fort Benning post championship teams, WACademics and Academic Profs, will be pitted against the Sports Arena girls' and men's teams Sunday afternoon at the Arena as features of a three-game basketball program.

The WACademic squad will face the Sports Arena Blues, state girls' champions last season, in the opening game of the program, starting at 2:30 p. m. The visiting club won the WAC championship at Benning last season and also gave the Blues two tough games during the year. It is headed by All-American Marge Fischlin, former Chicago Baby Ruth star. The Blues are unbeaten in four games thus far this season.

In the second game of the afternoon Johnny Moon's Tomboys team will face the College Park Peaches, these being two of the better girls' teams in Atlanta.

The Academic Profs play the Sports Arena boys in the final game, and the Profs are rated one of the best service teams in the south, having a number of college stars from all over the country in their lineup. The team averages over six feet in height.

Gaines Only Regular To Start for Tech

By F. M. WILLIAMS

When Georgia Tech takes the field against Tulane Saturday there will be only one regular in the lineup.

Deane Gaines, who moves on to another Navy station after this week, will open at right tackle, Coach Bobby Dodd announced last night as he and 39 players departed for New Orleans, scene of the game.

Coach Dodd said he would have started an entire second team except that he wanted Gaines to open what will probably be his last football game in a Tech uniform.

The Jackets are heavy favorites to whip the Greenies, despite the fact that Coach Dodd plans to play his reserves as much as possible.

"From here on out we have got to use our reserves more and they have got to get some experience," Dodd said. "It may be a dangerous gamble to start them against Tulane but we have to do it and I think the net result will be good enough to warrant taking a chance."

The Jackets will get in a light drill this afternoon in New Orleans.

They finished work here with a long signal drill yesterday with all players working in light togs.

Players making the trip are:

Pitt Students Want Shaughnessy Ousted

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8.—(UP) A student revolt against Coach Clark Shaughnessy flared into the open at the University of Pittsburgh today when petitions demanding "a new deal in football and a new coach" were circulated.

The petitions, addressed to Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald, bore 500 signatures. The students leading the revolt said they intended to get 2,000 signatures before presenting the petitions to Fitzgerald.

The students citing "pride in the team" as the reason for their action, did not indicate what coach was their choice as a replacement for Shaughnessy.

Since taking over at Pittsburgh in 1943, Shaughnessy's record is 10 victories and 13 losses. The Panthers haven't scored a victory over a major opponent since he was installed.

HAEGG, ANDERSSON BRANDED 'PROS'

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Ousting of record-holders Arne Andersson and Gunder Haegg from amateur track ranks by the Swedish Athletic Association, as reported today by the Stockholm Expressen, came as a surprise to Dan J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National AAU.

"We invited Haegg, Andersson and Lennart Strand on about Aug. 1 to compete in the United States this winter," Ferris said, "and the absence of a reply from the Swedish AAU indicates to me that the athletes have been under investigation for some time."

Ferris added that he still hoped to have Strand come to the U. S., pointing out that the newcomer had defeated both Haegg, who will be 27 next month, and Andersson, who is Haegg's senior, in the Swedish 1,500-meter nationals last summer and also in the mile run.

Elliott Warns Quail Hunters

Director Charles Elliott, of the State Game and Fish Commission, said yesterday "somebody has been putting out misinformation and as a result they've begun shooting quail in the coastal region before the season opens."

The season opens the morning of Nov. 20, he said, "but someone has been telling them that it opened Nov. 1."

The deer and turkey seasons in the coastal region opened Nov. 1, Elliott said. Inland the season for deer opens Nov. 15 and for turkeys Nov. 20.

Auburn and Tech 'B' Teams To Clash

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Auburn B team, which boasts a season record of two victories and no defeats, will tangle with the Georgia Tech B team in Auburn stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Coached by Tex Warrington, all-America center at Auburn last year, the Tiger Bees defeated the Georgia Bullpups last week and won their season opener from the Jacksonville (Ala.) State Teachers, 72-6.

Ray Kennedy Is Named Pirate General Manager

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8.—(UP) Ray L. Kennedy, 50, secretary and business manager of Newark in the International League, has been signed as the Pittsburgh Pirates' first general manager, effective Jan. 1, 1946, the club announced today.

The Pirates, one of the few teams without a general manager, said Kennedy will take some of the work load off club executives in the "inevitable expansion of baseball in the years to come."

Massey Faces Black Demon

Al Massey, Atlanta's favorite wrestler, will have a chance to gain added prestige when he clashes with the masked Black Demon in the one-fall-to-a-finish finale on Promoter Paul Jones' all-star wrestling show at the City Auditorium tonight.

If Massey wins, the mask will be removed from the big strapping Demon. The masked man has been here long enough to arouse curiosity of the fans, and nothing would please them more than to have their favorite from Miami force him to expose his face to the audience tonight. The match may be one of those rough and tumble bouts. Both men are about the same size and lean a bit to the rough side of the game.

Supporting this match and also scheduled to a finish will be the promising bout between Dick Lever, of Nashville, Tenn., and Red Vagnone, from Columbus, Ohio. Vagnone made quite a hit here last week in a team tag match. The fans will be pulling for him tonight against the rough and ready Lever. The other match involving male grapplers will feature Barto Hill against Wally Greb.

The feminine stars will handle the first two spots on the card. In the opener, Evelyn Wall will tusle with Juanita Coffman, while the second tilt brings together Rose Evans and June Byers.

Vines Enters Tourney

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Newest entrant in the Azalea open golf tournament here Nov. 15-18 is Ellsworth Vines, the former tennis champ who turned to golfing. Vines won the southern California $1,500 open golf title at Los Angeles last Sunday.

Conn To Kayo Louis

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8—(UP)—Johnny Ray, manager of Billy Conn, predicted today that his fighter will "knock out" Joe Louis when they meet next June for the world's heavyweight championship. "Conn shows the same natural ability and speed he always has possessed," Ray said. "I think he'll knock out Louis."

Amateur Winner at Pinehurst

Lt. Middlecoff Shoots 280 To Top Professionals

By REESE HART,
United Press Sports Writer.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 8—(UP)—Lt. Cary Middlecoff, a young amateur with a powerful driving arm and a steady eye on the greens, took the annual North-South golf tournament away from the professionals today to become the first amateur winner of the 44-year-old competition.

Middlecoff, ineligible under USGA rules for top prize money offered the pros, was awarded a $100 "token" prize and handed a bronze medal that brought a happy smile to his freckled face.

Denny Shute, the Akron, O., ace who had been in a drive-for-drive race with little Ben Hogan throughout the tournament, finally edged ahead of the Hershey, Pa., pro to grab first prize money of $1,000.

Middlecoff, a former University of Mississippi links man, wrapped up the victory with a 72-hole card of 280—eight strokes better than par and five ahead of the nearest pro. The smiling 24-year-old officer swept aside all competition despite the handicap of a badly infected eye which Army doctors are treating at Valley Forge General Hospital in Philadelphia.

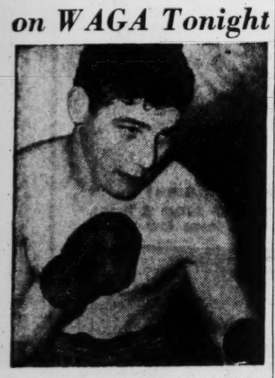
Playing the final 18 holes in a threesome with Hogan and Gene Sarazen, of New York City, the young Army dentist from Memphis, Tenn., took an even par 72 to go with his 69 on the morning round.

Johnny Bulla, of Atlanta, finished in a five-way tie for 12th place with a 293.

Jayvee Game Off

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 8.—The Georgia Jayvees' game with Middle Georgia College in Cochran Friday night has been cancelled. The Bullpups play their next game against the Auburn freshmen some two weeks hence in West Point.

Janiro-Greco Bout on WAGA Tonight



In the feature event at New York tonight, Tony Janiro (above), the picture puncher from Youngstown, Ohio, meets Johnny Greco, the Montreal macer, in a welterweight bout scheduled to go eight rounds.

This is the rubber match between the Buckeye biffer and the Canadian clouter. In their first meeting last July, Greco won the decision. Next time up, in August, Janiro was the winner.

Tony Janiro, the boxer, and Johnny Greco, the slugger, are two of the best welters in the business. Their clash tonight promises to be one of the fastest and most bitterly fought matches of the current season.

HEART-BROKEN CZARINA

Miss Arden Planning To Give Up Racing

By INEZ ROBB,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(INS)—Elizabeth Arden, distraught and white with shock, stood in her elaborate Fifth avenue offices today and wept as she felt her fabulous racing kingdom collapse around her.

"This is the most dreadful thing that has ever happened to me!" cried the cosmetics czarina as she tried to digest the stunning news that Tom Smith, famous trainer of her equally famous Maine Chance racing stable, had been banned from the turf for a year for allegedly using ephedrine, a stimulant, on an Arden horse on Nov. 1.

The Arden stable, biggest money winner of the 1945 turf season, may even be broken up, she said. Under Smith's care her horses have won $507,945 so far this year, the greatest sum ever won by a woman owner and approaching the all-time high winnings of $601,660 set by Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stables in 1944.

"Isn't this sad just when I have the best horses in the world?" she asked. "No one had to do this to my horses. They are wonderful horses and all they needed to win was just food. Oh, it will break my heart if I have to give up my horses, but I'm considering it. Right now I feel like it."

Miss Arden is Mrs. Elizabeth Graham Lewis in private life and one of America's most fantastically successful businesswomen.

News of the charges left her a shaken and heartbroken woman who only moments before also had been the proud owner of one of the best racing stables in turf history. Her lips were white and trembling. As she tried to talk, she wrung her long white hands with their beautifully manicured, rose nails.

"I never cared about winning the money," she continued, almost incoherent with shock and distress. "It was the silver cups I cherished."

She leaned against the office wall, slim in her chic, one-piece dress of black wool trimmed with black satin. The soft sheen of real pearls, the size of marbles, gleamed at her throat and the office light caught their diamond clasp. Gold and diamonds glistened in her ears, and a huge diamond solitaire flashed from time to time on one of her twisting hands.

"It's a terrible shock," she kept repeating. "I would have staked my life on Smith. I can't believe it!"

J. Howard Carter, Miss Arden's lawyer, arrived on a dead run to give what aid and comfort possible.

"Miss Arden will conduct a painstaking investigation of her own," Carter said. "She will do her utmost to determine Smith's guilt or innocence, and if any other individual is involved."

If Miss Arden's investigation discloses that any races won by her fabulously successful stable this season were won by fraud she "will right the wrongs done," Carter said.

"I mean I will give the purses—the money I won—to the Red Cross or some other worthy cause," chimed in Miss Arden. "I couldn't keep money won by deceit or trickery."

Benning Snipers Beat ASF, 56-51

A powerful cage team representing the Fort Benning Snipers downed Lt. Ralph Hamilton's A. S. F. Officers by a 56-to-51 score last night at Marietta.

The game was a hard-fought one all the way. The Snipers led at halftime, 30 to 29. Jim Homer, former University of Alabama star, led the winning quintet with 20 points, while Hamilton topped the Officers with a healthy score of 33. The contest was the first of the season in Marietta.

In a preliminary game, the Lorelei Ladies whipped the Marietta Holeproof Hosiery girls, 28 to 13. Elah Whitaker was high scorer for the winners with 11.

Boys' High Runners Defeat Riverside

The Boys' High cross-country team scored its second victory of the season with a 37-point margin over Riverside. The Purples had previously won over Tech High with a four point margin.

R. Smith, Pound and E. Smith were top scorers for Boys' High and Stuart, Carroll and Legler were top men for Riverside.

Decatur Plays Owls Tonight

Lewis Woodruff's Decatur Boys' High Bulldogs, winners of seven straight games without a defeat, will seek their eighth straight triumph at 8 o'clock tonight on the Decatur Field where West Fulton's Owls will be the foe in an NGIC tussle.

The powerful Bulldogs need only to down the Owls tonight and a strong LaGrange team in LaGrange next Friday night to clinch the 1945 conference crown. The Owls trailed the Bulldogs only 13-12 at the half last year but finally succumbed, 38-12.

Another outstanding NGIC fray tonight pits Russell's Wildcats against surprising Fulton High on the Russell Field at 8 p. m. Both teams are among the better clubs here this year.

College Park will play Rockmart at 3:15 p. m. today on the College Park Field. Marist will be in Augusta for a GIAA tiff with Richmond Academy tonight and North Fulton will engage the murderous Gainesville eleven in the latter city. GMA will meet McCallie school, from Cattanooga, at GMA at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Coleman Named Auburn Publicist

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Jimmy Coleman, who has served as assistant to Fred Turbyville in handling Auburn sports publicity this season, has been designated as acting director of the office, Coach Voyles announced today.

Turbyville, in ill health, was removed from a hospital to his home this week, but is under a doctor's orders to remain inactive for the next several weeks, Voyles said.

Arlington Burial Likely for Larson

Col. Emory Ellsworth (Swede) Larson's body probably will be buried at Arlington National cemetery, according to an announcement made by the Naval Air Station here yesterday. Larson died Tuesday in Atlanta of a heart attack after a brief illness at the Naval hospital.

Swede Larson was both a famous player and head football coach at the Naval Academy. He left his coaching position at Annapolis in 1941 to go to active service in the Marine Corps.

Change in Army-Navy Site Gets Backing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patterson said today that he thinks it would be a good idea to hold the Army-Navy football game in different parts of the country each year.

"I'm in favor of it," he told a reporter. "I do not see why anybody should have a monopoly." This year's game is scheduled for Philadelphia Dec. 1.

Bulldogs Depart For Florida

Thirty-five Players On Trip; Smith May Be Starter

By "SON" MAXWELL,
Constitution Staff Writer.

EN ROUTE TO JACKSONVILLE WITH GEORGIA TEAM, Nov. 8.—Thirty-five Georgia Bulldogs were on their way tonight to Jacksonville, where they face Tom Lieb's Florida 'Gators Saturday afternoon before a packed municipal stadium. The game will start at 2:30 p. m., EST.

The Georgia squad left Athens early this evening, boarded a sleeper in Atlanta and will arrive in Jacksonville tomorrow morning.

SQUAD IN GOOD SHAPE

Despite the fact that his team is an odds-on favorite to win Saturday's game, Georgia's Coach Wally Butts was not exuding confidence. But then he never is. "We're in pretty good shape for Florida and should play them a good ball game," he said. At the same time he pointed out that the 'Gators are always tough for Georgia and generally play one of their best games against his club.

Butts also revealed that Charles "Rabbit" Smith, who lives at Palatka, Fla., would probably start the game. He has been nursing a bad ankle for three games, and won't be at his best for this week's game. "We're counting on him plenty, though," said Butts, "and believe he'll be ready to carry a good share of the Georgia offensive burden."

The Bulldogs went through a brisk workout this afternoon before entraining for Atlanta with a signal drill and passes being stressed. Johnny Rauch and Charlie Trippi were doing the throwing, and the squad showed plenty of pep and fight.

Georgia's starting lineup will be Edwards and Tereshinski at ends, Castronis and Sanders at tackles, Miller and St. John at guards, Cooley at center, Rauch at quarter, Trippi and either Smith or Donaldson at halves and Steiner at fullback.

WORKOUT IN JACKSONVILLE

The team will hold a light workout in the Jacksonville stadium, site of the Saturday game, tomorrow afternoon.

Players making the trip to Jacksonville include ends, Edwards, Tereshinski, Moseley, Sellers, Bailey and Phillips; tackles, Castronis, Turner, Sanders, Hiers Cook and Kapascinski; guards Miller St. John, Jernigan, Colson, Furchgott, Chonko, Alexander, Pope; centers, Cooley, Davis, Plant, Deleski; quarterbacks Rauch, Gordon and C. Sanders; halfbacks Smith, Trippi, Culpepper, Ryals Lee, and Donaldson; fullbacks, Steiner, Reid, Frank and Jeffery.

Field Trial Club Drawings Slated At 7:30 Tonight

Atlanta Field Trial Club officials and handlers of the bird dogs entered in the club's annual fall trials scheduled for the Chattahoochee river course near Adamsville Saturday and Sunday will meet at the H. G. Hastings Company, Mitchell street at Broad, starting at 7:30 tonight.

The drawing of the braces for the three stakes scheduled Saturday will be the chief business conducted at tonight's meeting.

Club officials are expecting the trials to be one of their most successful in many seasons. A record field is already assured in the popular shooting dog stake, while the other events, which will feature the highly trained field trial pointers and setters, will be composed of some of the best dogs in the south. George Crangle, nationally famous trainer of bird dogs, will be on hand, along with several other veteran handlers of the field trial circuit.

Plans have been made to serve meals on the grounds both Saturday and Sunday. Fans are invited to come early and stay throughout each program.

Crackers To Train In Florida Camp

Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta club of the Southern Association, announced yesterday that the Crackers would train in Florida next spring but added that a site for the workout has not been selected.

The Crackers, league champions this year, suspended training away from home along with other clubs in 1943 for the duration.

Atlanta trained at St. Augustine, Fla., in 1942, and in years previous at Savannah, Ga., Panama City, Fla., and Gulfport, Miss.

'I MUST HAVE BEEN THERE'

Hess Says Mind Blank As Movies Unfold Past

By GEORGE TUCKER

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Rudolf Hess, the third ranking Nazi until his unexplained airplane flight to Britain at the height of the war, sat in the gloom of a projection room today and watched newsreels of himself during the days of his greatest power.

Also in the audience, but watching Hess instead of the flickers, were Justice Robert Jackson, U. S. prosecutor for the coming war crimes trial; Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, head of the U. S. Officers of Strategic Services, and psychiatrists. Hess is one of the ranking Nazis facing trial.

The beetle-browed Nazi, who asserts he can remember nothing, sat handcuffed to two guards as a 1934 version of "Party Day in Nuernberg" flashed on the screen.

Specially placed lights faintly illuminated his countenance.

As the picture started with a rich background of Wagnerian music, Hess leaned forward and half rose from his chair. All eyes were on him; his were intent upon the screen.

He saw himself as a younger man, a zealot weaving a hypnotic spell over a vast Nazi party congress. For in those days he was Hitler's deputy. He saw the Fuehrer practically dancing a jig in an ecstasy of appreciation as the Hess on the screen made a three-quarter swing to the audience, crying:

"Sieg Heil, Sieg Heil!"

Hitler leaped forward and seized the speaker by the arm.

As the movie rolled on, defendant Hess gradually relaxed. Jackson's eyes bored upon him steadily. Gen. Donovan, the "Wild Bill" of the first World War, never allowed his gaze to wander. Two American psychiatrists, Col. Schraeder of Chicago and Maj. Kelley, of San Francisco, fixed their professional gazes on Hess. So did a Russian psychiatrist.

The officials wondered whether the filmed document of a vanished glory would shake from Hess the amnesia which he declares has robbed him of all knowledge of past events.

The outcome might determine whether Hess is to live or die.

Also watching the play of emotion was Naval Comdr. James B. Donovan, of New York, no kin of the general, chief of the special projects division of Jackson's trial staff. It was Comdr. Donovan who suggested and prepared the showing.

Once his initial tension passed, Hess showed an impassive countenance to the observers throughout the remainder of the film. This never varied as Hermann Goering, Julius Streicher, the late Dr. Robert Ley and most of the other defendants paraded across the screen.

As suddenly as it began, the show was over. Lights snapped on.

Almost a minute of absolute silence elapsed.

Col. John Amen, chief interrogator, turned to Hess. As softly as though he were speaking to a child, Amen said:

"Do you remember?"

Hess motioned as if to brush his hand against his eyes but the handcuffs interfered. Slowly he said:

"I recognized Hitler and Goering. I recognized the others, but only because I heard their names mentioned and have seen their names on cell blocks in this jail."

"Don't you remember there?"

"I don't remember. I must have been there because obviously I was there. But I don't remember."

Hess stood between his guards. He looked years older than the man who had just dominated the screen. He had on a pair of German jackboots.

The justice and the general and the others made room for him to pass. The guards led Hess back to his cell.

WHEN THE MARINES LAND—THEY STAY—The situation is always in hand when the Marines land, even against fanatical opposition like the Japs put up at Iwo Jima as shown in this action photo of bloody beachhead fighting. Tomorrow night Atlanta Marines will celebrate the corps' 170th birthday with a dinner at the Ansley hotel.

Big 50-Lb. Cake Ready For Marines' Birthday

Atlanta Marines will cut a 50-pound cake tomorrow night in celebration of the corp's 170th birthday.

Among their guests at the Ansley's Rainbow Room will be Mayor Hartsfield, who will act as toastmaster with Marine Colonel Hawley C. Waterman, veteran of Guadalcanal and officer in charge of the corps' Southeastern Recruiting Division, with headquarters here.

Marine Maj. Frank C. Tharin, of 79 Clarendon avenue, Atlanta, air hero of the valiant defense of Wake island in December, 1941, and a prisoner of the Japs for more than three years, will be a speaker.

Tribute will be paid to Georgia's two posthumous winners of the Congressional Medal of Honor in World War II—Sgt. Clyde A. Thomason, of Atlanta, who spearheaded the drive across Makin island with Carlson's famed raiders, and Lt. Col. Aquilla J. Dyess, of Augusta, who led a battalion at Namur, in the Marshalls—and other Marines who gave their lives.

Some 8,500 Georgia Marines served in World War II, many of whom are still overseas—in China, Japan and at island bases.

Created Nov. 10, 1775, by the Continental Congress, the Marine Corps saw action the next year against the British in the Revolutionary War. Marines have fought in every American war. From Guadalcanal they led the Pacific war to Okinawa and Japan itself on land and sea and in the air.

The mammoth cake for Saturday's party, made by the Carroll Baking Company, will be in pyramidal form and iced with the Marine Corps colors of red and gold, with the lettering, "170th Birthday, U. S. Marine Corps." Big as the cake is, however, it won't have room for 170 candles.

Part of the program will be broadcast over a Georgia-wide network.

Hosts will be Wake Island Detachment No. 2 of the Marine Corps League.

Noon Bell Blocks Vote on War Training

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP) Universal military training was saved from a vote—and likely defeat—in the House Military Affairs Committee today by the noon bell.

Unmoved by a plea for the bill by Secretary of War Patterson, who said that 250,000 Americans may die in one day if war comes again, an opposing bloc led by Rep. Short, Republican, Missouri, tried to force a vote on the measure.

The committee session broke up in a row after Short was overruled on his demand for a roll call on his motion to defer action until next year or until after the senate has acted. Backers of the bill blocked the roll call by contending the committee was not legally in session since it was after noon and the house itself was convening.

Because of absences of committee members, opponents of the legislation apparently had a majority at the time.

"You can say this bill is dead," Short told reporters after the vote was blocked. He said he would strive every day the hearings on it continue to force a vote on deferring action.

Secretary Patterson led off testimony on the bill, patterned after President Truman's recommendations that young men 18 to 20 years of age serve a year to build up a giant reserve of trained forces in the event of an emergency.

Veal steak, because of lack of fat, is never broiled. Braising is the best method of cooking veal chops and steaks. This thick braised steak is served in a border of mashed potatoes, garnished with Brussels sprouts.

Veal Has Delicate Flavor; Must Be Cooked Slowly

By SALLY SAVER

There is surely more meat in our markets, but not many prime roasts or pork loins, almost no ham or bacon. Utility beef, veal, lamb and mutton are most abundant, and of these, veal is the meat selected for our menu today.

Veal has a delicate flavor and fine texture and it is not difficult to prepare, though some extra care is necessary if veal is to appear at its very best. Braising is the best cooking method for veal. Braising means to brown gently in a small amount of fat, then add a few tablespoons of stock or water, cover pan and cook slowly until tender. A thick veal steak braised and served in a border of potatoes garnished with a second vegetable, Brussels sprouts, is the meat pictured. Veal steaks are never broiled for while the meat is tender it lacks fat, and will be dry unless cooked more slowly with moist heat. Prepare a thick veal steak in this way:

BRAISED VEAL STEAK
2 pounds veal steak
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
2 cups crushed corn flakes
4 tablespoons fat or drippings
1 small can mushrooms

Wipe meat with damp cloth, and dip in the slightly beaten egg to which the milk has been added. Roll in the finely crushed corn flakes. Brown in hot fat, on both sides. Pour mushrooms and liquid over, cover pan closely and cook very slowly until meat is done, about 45 minutes. Lift steak to hot platter, pile well-seasoned mashed potatoes around and garnish with Brussels sprouts which have been cooked quickly in rapidly boiling salted water, then buttered. Make gravy from pan drippings to serve in separate dish.

DINNER MENU
(With Braised Veal)
Tomato and Anchovy Canape
Braised Veal with Mushroom Gravy
Mashed Potatoes,
Brussels Sprouts
Molded Cranberry Salad
Hot Biscuits, Butter
Pumpkin Pie, Coffee

MOLDED CRANBERRY SALAD
1 can cranberry sauce
1/2 cup hot water
1 package plain gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
1/2 cup chopped walnut meats

Crush cranberry sauce, add hot water and heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Remove hot sauce from fire, and add softened gelatin, stirring until well blended. Cool. When cool fold in cabbage, celery and nut meats. Place in individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens and serve with any desired salad dressing.

PUMPKIN PIE
2 cups steamed and strained pumpkin (or use canned pumpkin)
(or use canned pumpkin)
1/3 cup molasses
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk

Bake a large pastry shell in hot oven, 425 degrees, 10 minutes. Mix pumpkin, molasses, seasonings, egg and milk. Blend until mixture is perfectly smooth then pour into the partly baked shell. Sprinkle top of pie with a little sugar cinnamon and tiny dots of butter. Place in 350 degree oven and bake until firm, about 1 hour. Serve warm, topped with whipped cream.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Lads You Do Know Deserve a Chance

You always seem to fall for the wrong boy, do you? You've probably been attracted by four different boys in the past year. And there wasn't a chance of any of them being attracted to you. There was the tall, dark chap you'd never met, the boy who was dating Sally, the third you met casually at a party, and the fourth worked in one of the local stores and you saw him around. Four swell guys and not a chance for you, you wail to yourself. How can you make some of the lads you like fall for you?

You can't ever be sure that any man you like will like you. All you can do is expose him to you and give him a chance. You can make yourself attractive to look at. You can be gay, friendly, and fun. And then you have to take a chance that your type will be his type. Put yourself in his line of vision . . . then wait to see if he sparks.

Elizabeth Woodward.

MAKE CONTACT

The first boy, the tall dark one, has never been introduced. But you can see that it happens. A mutual friend could do it, or you could take the matter in your own hands and start talking to him, if you could get close enough. If he doesn't know anyone you know, if your paths never cross, if he's just one of the boys you see around, skip it. At a distance he looks very interesting. Perhaps if you pursued him and caught up with him you'd just be out of breath—and disappointed.

The lad who was dating Sally seems to have been a staked claim. He saw Sally first. If you all go to the same places, let him get a good look at you. You can talk with him, laugh with him, dance with him . . . without poaching on Sally's preserves. Make it easy for him to want a date with you. But don't make the date easily.

Forget the lad you met casually at the party. If he wasn't conscious that you were alive, you just weren't his type. Another time make a stronger impression when you meet likely lads at parties. Don't just sit quietly on your side of the room thinking he's very attractive indeed. Make an aggressive move to get acquainted with him. He'll never like you unless he has a chance to know you.

THE OTHERS LOOK BEST

The big trouble is that to you the far meadow looks greenest. It's the boys you don't know who look the most attractive. What's the matter with the boys you do know? You're not giving them a chance. All you can tell about some strange lad is the way he looks. You like the shape of his ears, or the way his hair grows on top. Maybe it's the width of his shoulders, or the width of his smile. All of which may hide the fact that he's stubborn as a mule, selfish as all get out, opinionated and conceited. Maybe you'll never have an opportunity to find out that this luscious lad is, or is not, as handsome as he looks. So it's utterly silly to waste your time and emotions pining for some boy who's not in your realm of possibility. Give a break to the guys close at hand. But keep an eye on the horizon!

Dr. Brady

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

DYSENTERY

Have been told that visitors here from foreign countries handle food and eating utensils we can get dysentery or malaria if they have had either disease. For instance people who have come here from India. (R. A. S.)

Answer—Not malaria—that is carried only by bite of infected mosquitoes. Persons who have had either form of dysentry (bacillary or amebic) may continue to be "carriers" long after apparent recovery, should not handle food or eating utensils without having passed health department test.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 20-April 19 (ARIES)—An excellent day to go slow in undertaking new ventures. Be cautious in travel and pay especial attention to your health. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3:01 p. m.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Do not try to overdo your strength today. Watch your health. Many of the difficulties encountered today may be caused through forgetfulness, nerves and high tension.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—An excellent day for any interest. There will be a feeling of permanency in your transactions, which will allow you to plan conservatively, work diligently and find harmony.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—The entire day through 7:45 p. m. should result most satisfactorily is almost any line of endeavor. After 7:45 p. m. favors ordinary business matters, but suggests caution in making sudden changes and unpremeditated moves.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—The morning hours and until 1:24 p. m. may bring you much activity. Your own efficiency will be increased and you should grasp opportunities that appear. If you desire to finish affairs quickly tackle them at this period.

Aug. 23-Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—Before 12:49 noon favors work that has a stability of purpose. People can be reasoned with and land transactions may be entered into, or closed, with favorable results. Before this hour, put into practice ideas that you want to be lasting and permanent.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—All you do today needs thought and plenty of it, to avoid haste and extravagance. High pressure may work, but will result in confusion and irritation.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—Avoid impulsiveness and ill-advised acts before 2:44 p. m., for you may feel a peculiar restlessness to do something without giving it due consideration. After 2:44 p. m. favors financial, social and professional pursuits.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—During the entire day you will have more than usual capacity for work that requires a quick mentality. You can introduce methods into the things you are attempting, and transactions started today will be active and meet unlooked-for developments for good.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—This is a day when you can use your energies advantageously. You can put your ideas across, you can take unusual chances, for people will have the ability to understand and appreciate the desires of others.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—Between 12:29 noon avoid mental tension, excitement and jumpiness. If you give in to these feelings, you will find a lack of co-operation around you. After 12:29 noon and continuing until 11:58 p. m. you will find that you can work quickly, with a great deal of self-confidence and satisfaction.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Do not make hasty decisions today, for it will be better to sleep on all matters of importance. You are likely to encounter disturbances, or have a feeling of nervousness.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

(History is an excellent teacher, but many of our political readers will not believe its lessons. Liberty and democracy cannot successfully be foisted upon a people from WITHOUT. They must spring up WITHIN a people, as was true when George Washington led our forefathers in creating the U. S. A.)

CASE H-219: Emperor Joseph II, of Austria, tried to give his people new privileges and much more freedom.

In 1781, therefore, he issued an edict granting freedom of worship to all Protestants and members of the Greek Orthodox Church.

He abolished serfdom or European slavery, and liberalized the laws, substituting various punishments for the all-too-frequent death penalty.

He established new tribunals and legal codes based on the principle that all citizens are equal before the law. He fostered trade by destroying monopolies, and founded colleges for the poorer classes.

He was a great leader in democracy, but how do you suppose his people reacted?

WIDESPREAD REVOLTS

Insurrections and mob revolts became so widespread that he had to undo most of the good things he had performed.

The people were not ready for such liberties! Let this be a lesson to our present statesmen who think they can arbitrarily foist democratic customs upon people long trained in opposite ideologies.

Liberty must spring up from within! It cannot be forcibly placed upon a person or a nation from without.

At this moment we are aware of bitter grumbling against America by many nations who have been freed by the blood of our sons and daughters.

PSYCHOLOGY AMONG NATIONS

European people are indignant because they aren't living more luxuriantly now than under Hitler's regime. They apparently thought we would free them, and then become a world-wide Santa Claus.

In their anger over lack of foodstuff and bombed cities, they are inclined to ignore the fact we helped free their government from Nazi domination.

The belly tends to dominate the brain! A full stomach and serfdom seem preferable to most people in contrast to liberty and a tightened belt.

Moses encountered this same revolt when he led the Hebrews from abject slavery under the cat-o-nine-tails of Egyptian taskmasters.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

"And the whole congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness," says the 16th chapter of Exodus.

"And the children of Israel said unto them, 'Would to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the fleshpots, and when we did eat bread to the full, for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger.'"

George Washington led our forefathers to establish a land of liberty, because freedom had arisen within America. It wasn't suddenly foisted upon this country from without by a league of nations or a European Santa Claus.

Clip this case record for evidence a few years hence when the "emotional recoil" phenomenon hits us, and we find ourselves called Uncle Shylock II by those whom we fed and our sons died to save abroad.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Constitution, inclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs, when you send for one of his psychological charts.')

SALLY FORTH Says:

Dakota Pheasants on Menu For Ruddy Ellis Breakfast

Those fortunate enough to be numbered among the guests invited to the football breakfast at which Martha and Ruddy Ellis will entertain on Dec. 1 at their home on Habersham road, preceding the Tech-Georgia game, have a superb treat in store. They will be served pheasant—not just ordinary pheasant—but game which Martha and Ruddy shot in South Dakota recently while on a visit to their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Woodruff, at their T. E. ranch in Cody, Wyo. The remainder of the menu promises to be equally delectable, and the affair will be one long to be remembered in fashionable circles.

Another party at which congenial friends will gather on Dec. 1 is the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Pope Brock will entertain at their Arden road home, following the Georgia-Tech game, honoring a group of prominent visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Conrad will entertain at a breakfast at the Piedmont Driving Club preceding the Tech-Clemson football game to be played on Nov. 24.

MRS. BURNS INHERITS HEIRLOOMS

When the junior committee of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., entertains at its mammoth tea and fashion show on Nov. 16, adorning the tea table will be a beautiful gold and white china candlestick of the Victorian era, which bears the D. A. R. seal, though it was made in France. The candleholder, one of a pair, was sent to Mrs. L. D. Burns Jr., chairman of the committee, by her aunt, Mrs. Harry B. Jordan, of Richmond, Va., who inherited it from her mother, the late Mrs. Nathaniel C. Burruss, of Norfolk, a charter member of the Great Bridge Chapter of D. A. R. in Norfolk.

The lovely candlestick, incidentally, was only a part of an interesting collection of heirlooms sent Mrs. Burns by her aunt. She also received a beautiful flexible gold chain bracelet and a locket to match, both being set with a tiny pearl and finished with gold tassels, which also once belonged to her grandmother. Then there is a brooch and matching earrings which have been fastened on a gold chain to form a handsome necklace.

But rarest of all, perhaps, is an old-fashioned rosewood bed that formerly belonged to Mrs. Burns' great-grandmother, Catherine Walters Day, of Richmond. It was made by Belter, the famous designer of rosewood furniture, in 1838. The high back is carved at the top with cupids, and the sides are serpentine, with the "bulges," so to speak, padded with red velvet. The ladies used to sit here, Mrs. Burns recalls hearing her grandmother say, to sip their coffee.

AMELIA WALLACE AWARDED DEGREE

Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp has just returned from Columbia, S. C., where she went to see her lovely young granddaughter, Amelia Wallace, of Mars Bluff, S. C., receive her A. B. degree. Amelia came down from Baltimore to receive her "sheepskin," for she has been a cadet nurse at Johns Hopkins School of Nursing since last June. You see, she is one of those rare persons who finished her four-year course in three years, and graduated cum laude, with second honor in a class of 79.

While at the university, Amelia was active in the Y. W. C. A., served as chairman of the campus service and social service committees, and was twice vice president and program chairman of the Carolina Christian Service Club. She was also tapped for Alpha Kappa Gamma, the regional honorary leadership fraternity, and Pi Gamma Mu, the honorary social science fraternity. She was awarded the 1944-45 honorary scholarship given by the ancient language department.

Members of Debutante Club 'Pinch Hit' as Columnists

Editor's Note: This is another of the series of contributions from the pens of the season's Debutante Club members. It is written by Miss Pat Cunningham, vivid daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Cunningham:

PAT CUNNINGHAM

I've never had a "most thrilling moment" because quite a few of them have been very exciting, nor any particular type of man, nor anything I love better than anything else in the world. But I do have quite a number of things I like to reminisce about, remember, and dream about. Here are a few of them:

Things I like to reminisce about in my calmer moments: my first days at the Seminary, including pledging Pi Pi, spend-the-night parties after the big formals, my first orchid, and my first man! In other words, what is clearly obvious, adolescence through high school in a mad daze of doings that still floor me as I look back on them. Then my freshman year of college at Randolph Macon—and the most important thing, pledging Tri Delta. Of course, I'll never forget my caravan trip out west; that was an experience with a capital "E."

Things I remember in my "wanting to relive them" moments: my trip to the Naval Air Base in Pensacola last August, my roommate's West Point wedding in Hattiesburg, Miss., in June, house parties at the island and in the mountains, parties in my den, and the I. F. C. dance at Tech when Harry James played.

Things I remember and am still doing: listening to Serenade in Blue; reading romantic (all right, so I'm sentimental) books; dancing, keeping my scrapbook up to date, swimming, horseback riding, eating boiled custard, living the life of a coed at the University of Georgia, which includes football games, homecoming and little commencement. I like this pursuit of higher learning.

Things I like to dream about: graduation from college and having a career for two or three years, including a trip to France (there's something about Paris that gets me). After that, I should like to marry, settle down and look back on life, love and laughter, still being able to do all three.

Service Command Personnel 1,383 Under War Peak

Personnel of the Fourth Service Command headquarters in Atlanta has been reduced by 1,383 from the employment all-time high reached during the war.

Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks, commanding general, also pointed out yesterday, however, that efficiency of all employes had increased with training and experience, so that heavier individual work loads could now be accommodated by a smaller staff.

Peak civilian employment at the headquarters totaled 1,746 in January, 1943. Now there are 922 civilians on the pay roll. Military personnel, including commissioned officers, WACs, enlisted men and women, currently number 499, as compared with the high of 1,081 in March, 1944, according to the report. While there were fewer military on duty in January, 1943, the total of military and civilian employes was larger than in March, 1944.

The largest number of troops present within the boundaries of the Fourth Service Command was 1,459,099 in June, 1943. This week the total was 890,246.

Work loads in the command's operations have not decreased in proportion to the staff, because hospitals, separation centers, supervision of prisoners of war, and disposition of new and used material have expanded activities. As demobilization continues, the volume of work will diminished, allowing additional reductions in the public pay roll, Gen. Brooks said.

Archbishop Attends Red Revolt Fete

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The 28th anniversary of the October Revolution in Russia was c'ebrated last night in the Soviet embassy with a lavish fete attended by hundreds.

Nikolai Novikov, charge d'affaires, in dark blue gold encrusted diplomatic uniform, and Mme. Novikov, in pale green brocade and chiffon with green orchids in her hair, were the hosts. Ambassador Andrei Gromyko is still out of the country.

Among the distinguished guests climbing the red-carpeted stairs to the brilliant reception hall were scores of diplomats and leaders in the capital's social and political life.

For the first time anyone could remember, the Russian Orthodox church had representation at this fete in the person of Archbishop Alexis, a picturesque figure in flowing black robes and a miter adorned with a diamond cross.

Two-Tone Beard, Cattle Color Change Blamed on A-Bomb

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Nov. 8.—(AP)—State Livestock Inspector Alfred Hunter reports cattle changed color and a rancher's beard became streaked with gray following the first atomic bomb test near here last July 16.

Confessing he was skeptical before seeing the cattle, Hunter said the red-coated, white-faced Herefords appeared to have a heavy frost across their backs. Several came off the C. M. Harvey ranch 25 or 30 miles from the bomb test site.

He said the new color was not deep and the cattle showed no signs of injury.

Will Wrye, a rancher at Bingham, N. M., said that following the explosion the beard on the sides of his face first appeared to have been seared and now was growing back white while the hair on his chin remained brown. He said he neither saw the bright flash nor heard the rumble which neighbors witnessed at the time.

Farm hands at the H. O. Bursum ranch near Carrizozo, N. M., told Hunter their cat was entirely black before the bomb test. Now it is half white.

Man, 68, Is Quizzed In 1923 Escape Case

A 68-year-old man, giving his name as Frank A. Jackson, is being held in Fulton tower pending an investigation to determine if he is the same man who escaped from a Georgia prison camp in 1923, after serving one year of a manslaughter sentence.

Jackson, who was arrested by the Georgia Bureau of Investigation at Jonesboro, Ga., where he claimed he was employed to paint highway stripes, has been identified by several persons as the fugitive, John Simmemon, who was charged in Stephens county in 1922, with the murder of Vann Herrin. Simmemon was convicted of manslaughter.

No fingerprints of Simmemon were taken back in 1922, according to law officials investigating the case, and identification by people who knew Simmemon is the only means the state has of proving Jackson is the same man. Jackson may be sent to Stephens county for a hearing of the case, law officers added. Jackson claims he is from Oklahoma and has lived in Georgia for only a year.

Grinning Motorist Battered Her With Hammer, Girl Claims

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A pretty 18-year-old girl, beaten into unconsciousness by a hammer-wielding motorist, is in too serious a condition to be questioned further about her assailant, police said today.

The victim of the brutal beating is Justine Hume, of Stamford, Conn., a freshman at the school of horticulture at nearby Ambler.

After hospital treatment for deep gashes in her scalp and arms, the girl told Police Chief James Ottinger of Upper Darby township, that she was waiting for a bus when an automobile passed "so close to me that I thought it would knock me down. Something hit me on the head."

The police chief said her statement continued:

"Momentarily stunned, I sat down on an embankment. The car stopped a dozen yards away and a man got out and walked back to me. He didn't say a word, just stood over me with a horrible grin on his face.

"Then he said suddenly, 'I'm sorry.'

"As I got to my feet, I suddenly noticed that he had a mechanic's hammer in his hand. He swung and, as it struck my head, he said, 'There.'"

She said the man continued to strike her with the hammer; then picked her up and tossed her into some bushes and drove away.

Laurens School Board Elects J. F. Hart

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 8. — The Laurens county board of education, in a meeting here today, elected J. F. Hart to fill the unexpired term of Elbert Mullis, who was removed as county superintendent of education after he pleaded guilty in superior court to a charge of embezzling public school records.

W. L. Lake, chairman of the board, said Hart would fill the office until Jan. 1, 1948.

Meantime, Mrs. Anne S. Parkerson, who was named to fill the vacancy created when Mullis was suspended from office following his indictment by the Laurens county grand jury in August, requested a ruling from Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook on whether or not she was entitled to serve the unexpired term. The board announced last week that a new successor would be elected.

It was understood here that the attorney general declined to intervene, saying it was a local matter, and one that could be settled in the court. Cook could not be reached in Atlanta for comment. Attaches at his office said he was out of town.

Mullis was indicted in August on a charge of embezzling and destroying public school records, involving a sum of money up to $13,000. He was suspended from office to await trial by the October term of the Laurens superior court. At that session he entered a special plea of guilty to the charges and was sentenced to four years in prison, two years for each offense, by Judge R. Earl Camp. The sentences were probated on payment of a $2,000 fine.

Following his plea in court, Mullis' suspension was changed to removal from office.

A HORSE BOLTS IN BROOKLYN— INJURES TWO TOTS, CAUSES NEAR PANIC

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A saddle horse tossed its rider on a crowded Brooklyn street today and in a headlong dash injured two children, upset several baby carriages and caused a near-panic among more than a score of mothers, said the official police report.

The white horse, ironically named "Pal," finally was halted by Taxi Driver George Dehrens, who pulled his cab in front of it.

Police said a 15-year-old boy had rented "Pal" for the afternoon. As the horse trotted along Ocean parkway it suddenly tossed the rider and fan along the sidewalk where the mothers and children were sunning themselves.

Abbeville High School Has Creosoting Plant

ABBEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 8.—Chandler W. Smith, vocational teacher of the Abbeville High school, announces that the Abbeville creosote plant, located on the vocational ground of the Abbeville school campus, is now in operation.

The plant was made available to the public with the purchasing of necessary machinery by some 35 farmers of the community, and Smith stated that the cost of creosoting posts brought in would be determined by the condition of the posts, but he estimated the cost to average a cent and a half above actual cost, considering the size and kind. This minimum charge will be in effect until the plant is paid for, Smith said, and then it will become the property of the school.

Weapons Test Case Figures Bound Over

C. H. Anderson, 34, of Decatur, and Raymond Walden, 28, of a Cooper street address, were bound over by Recorder A. W. Callaway yesterday to the Fulton county criminal court on charges of carrying concealed weapons, following their arrest Wednesday night when police broke up what they said was a gambling game at a Cain street parking lot.

Bond for the two men was set at $100 each.

In the case of Anderson, who held a DeKalb county permit to carry a gun, it will be a test to determine whether or not men with gun permits from counties other than Fulton will be allowed to carry weapons in Fulton county.

Anderson, whose permit was issued to him by DeKalb county Ordinary V. S. Morgan, and Walden both have police records.

In a move to disarm lawbreakers, Detective Supt. E. I. Hildebrand recently said he would take their guns away from racketeers, if the courts would back him up.

The case against Anderson hinges on the police contention that, although he had a gun permit, he was carrying the weapon in his pocket and thus had it concealed.

In addition to binding Anderson and Walden over on the concealed weapons charges, Recorder Callaway also fined both $17 each on gambling charges.

Others taken into custody by City Detectives R. E. Little and R. E. Finley in the same raid were fined like amounts. They were Martin L. Fowler, of a Pryor street address; Roy R. McAlpine, 26, of the Park hotel; Dow R. Whitaker, of a Willow street address; W. L. Riding, of the Park hotel; Horace E. Ingram, 26, of 578 English avenue, and a woman, Marion Randall, 22, who was arrested along with the others. Recorder Callaway imposed a similar fine on Earl P. Martin, 17, a member of the group, but suspended the sentence.

Tax Man Wonders Why $100 Autos Actually Sell for $1,000 and Up

By M. L. ST. JOHN

How much are automobiles worth? Five hundred, or $1,500?

Maybe so on the present market, but not so on Georgia's tax digests. The average taxable valuation on the 544,650 motor vehicles in this state is slightly more than $100. Taxable value of such vehicles was returned at $57,819,269 last year.

This does not mean that more than a half million car and truck owners are returning their vehicles for taxes at $100, thereby falsifying their tax returns, tax officials said. The average for the entire lot is pulled way down by the fact that hundreds and hundreds of owners do not return their motor vehicles for ad valorem taxation at all.

Motorist pay their license fees of $1.50 and upward because they have to have a tag on their car, or be pulled into court, it was observed. But they fail to list motor vehicles as property when returning their personal property taxes.

Indications that efforts will again be made to tap this source of new income for the state and counties was seen in the Fulton county grand jury presentments just returned.

"We feel," the grand jurors said, "that provision should be made to press collection of such taxes (ad valorem taxes on motor vehicles) immediately following delinquency. We believe that some method whereby payment of taxes on automobiles as a precedent to obtaining current license tags would materially reduce the number of delinquents and at the same time produce considerable additional revenue."

A bill to do this was introduced at the 1945 session of the legislature. It died in committee, as similar bills did in former sessions.

It is probable that another measure will be presented in January. It would require a person to produce his tax return receipt, showing that he had filed a return on his car with the county tax receiver, before the state revenue department would issue him a license plate.

Critics of this procedure, who fought it in the past session of the legislature, say it is impractical. It places a burden on the state to collect county taxes, and it makes it cumbersome for used car dealers who might have to check the tax standing on vehicles they buy and sell, they point out. Supporters of the plan say the state has an interest in the tax returns and that possession of a new tag should prove the car owner has cleared up the taxes on the vehicle he is selling.

The state receives 5 mills tax on motor vehicles returned for property tax. The rates in the different counties vary.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

Famous Jury Trials, the popular dramatic program which each week presents a re-enactment of a trial typical of many in the annals of American court history, will begin its sixth consecutive year on ABC, with its broadcast at 9 p. m. tonight on station WAGA.

The program has been commended for having acquainted millions of listeners with courtroom procedure and the workings of American justice, and its audience includes the largest professional and prelegal following known to radio. Harold R. Mendiva, noted attorney and professor of law at Columbia University, will be a guest on the anniversary program. The dramatic fare will be the re-enactment of a sensational case in which a gangster-politician was brought to trial in the fatal shooting of a rival candidate for public office.

When Cliff Arquette, owner-manager of ABC's mythical old hostelry, Glamour Manor, discovers that an old flame is in town, he togs himself out in his old college clothes to recapture the mood of many years ago, then calls on her—without considering the reception that awaits him from his old flame's husband—during the Glamor Manor broadcast at 12 noon over Station WAGA.

Tom Cowan, the first sports announcer in radio, will be the guest of Sportscaster Joe Hasel on Your American Sports Page, to be heard at the conclusion of the Janiro-Greco fight, which will be broadcast at 10 p. m., over station WAGA. The first big sports event covered by radio, the World Series of 1921, was described by Cowan for Station WJZ, ABC's New York station.

STRIPPERS STEP OUT

And Chorus Girls Must Learn Dance

By MARY HARRINGTON

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 8.—(UP) The final curtain is falling on strip-teasers. Men don't shout from the audience any more.

They can't. There are too many women among the paying customers.

So the men take slapstick comedy and like it—in bigger and bigger doses until it's becoming a revival of oldtime vaudeville.

"It's the postwar world," said philosophical Jess Myers, manager of the Empire, biggest Burle-q in the New York area. No strip-teasing is allowed in New York City.

"Women started coming in groups during the war," he said. "What they liked was comedy. For a couple of years they were most of the audience."

Now it's changed. The men are back, but they have to bring their women with them. Myers said if the men still would prefer more revealing entertainment they never show their feelings by staying home.

"So, we're doing an amputation job on the strippers," Myers said.

"We've cut down from six to two of 'em. We give them fancier wardrobes, and we call them exotic dancers."

There are a lot of reasons for the death of the strip. Myers, 42, considers himself an authority on all of them. He's worked the burlesque circuit since his father made him a ticket-taker at 15 in the family's Philadelphia Burle-q.

"Strippers have outlived their usefulness," he said. "Even if there weren't women in the audience, the fellows wouldn't be enthusiastic. They all know now that no stripper strips. The purple light don't fool anybody any more."

It isn't profitable to be a stripteaser any more, either. Theater managers pay a mere $300 a week to ace "exotic dancers" who once received $1,000 or more.

"Can't pay that now, because you've got to have good comedians, or people won't come," Myers said. "So you give comedians the big dough."

It seems that burlesque is the poor man's musical comedy these days. Two hours of frisky fun for one dollar.

"Six minutes of stripping is all the customers will take now," Myers said. "Frankly, I'm glad. Them strippers got so temperamental when they were making big money. Now they're sweet to workers because they know they're a dime a dozen.

Next week Myers is going all out to follow the trend. The strippers will appear only for two minutes each. The rest of the bill will be filled with singers and comedians who squirt seltzer water at each other and throw pies a-la-Keystone.

"Next season we'll have only one stripper," Myers said.

But, more important, he's going to make his chorus girls learn how to dance!

Film at Fox Below Par

In my humble opinion "Johnny Angel," the cinema offered up at the Fox theater this week is "much ado about nothing," and certainly is not of the caliber of pictures the Peachtree movie palace is accustomed to offering its patrons.

It is one of those weird affairs about a son (George Raft) who sets out to solve the mystery surrounding the death at sea of his father, a ship's captain.

In it, RKO set out to concoct a dish similar to "Casablanca," but they forgot one of the most important ingredients in preparing the entree—a good story. "Johnny Angel" has enough subject matter to fill about five pages of a good novel and this is spread as thin as butter on a piece of restaurant toast.

Raft has a mouthful of tough talk which he dispenses in the usual Raft tight lipped manner, and Claire Trevor has a meaty part as a dime-a-dance blonde; Singe Hasso was written into the script for some reason — known only to the author—and Hoagy Carmichael is dealt in as a laconic taxi driver. They all come out on top as far as the acting is concerned, but the play could have used a good dose of vitamins along toward the middle.

Miss Trevor in the story is the irresponsible wife of a New Orleans ship owner, and ex-dime-a dance girl. Miss Hasso is a French girl who stows away on Angel's ship, which is found abandoned at sea. Miss Hasso holds the secret to the murder of Angel's father and also the massacre of the rest of the ship's crew. This, quite naturally, put her on the spot, since Raft is hot on her heels to learn the truth about the killing and the whereabouts of a load of gold which was on the ship, and at the same time, the killer is trying to keep her mouth pinned together, lest he face a murder "rap."

Though the slow start doesn't indicate there's going to be any serious romantic clinches, Raft and Miss Hasso eventually get together in a little love nest, after he has spurned the love of the "other woman."

Hoagy Carmichael who has contributed richly to many another movie of this type, diddles with a gadget throughout and mumbles the lyrics to an unaudible ditty as his contribution to this opus.

"Johnny Angel" is the only new movie along picture row; the rest of them were held over.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Strong spots persisted in today's stock market although rails and many industrial leaders, after seven straight rising sessions to peaks since 1937, took a rest in lower ground. Transfers of 1,960,000 shares compared with 2,380,000 the day before.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 74.7, with the rails losing .8, the industrials .2 and the utilities unchanged. It was the first setback since Oct. 29. It was another broad market, 1,023 issues registering against the record of 1,061 in the previous session. Of the day's total there were 440 declines and 403 advances.

The bond market retained some degree of firmness today as investors made new purchases of high-priced corporation securities; but most of the rails and other trading issues ended irregular.

Better curb performers were Eversharp, City Auto Stamping and Investors Royalty. Turnover here was 1,480,000 shares, a top since Oct. 19, 1937. The aggregate yesterday was 1,230,000.

VA's Bradley Worried Over Pay He Can Offer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gen. Bradley said today he is concerned over the possibility the Veterans' Administration will not be able to pay salaries good enough to do the job ex-servicemen "need and deserve."

The four-star officer, now heading VA, testified in support of a bill to raise civil service pay scales 20 per cent. The matter is before the Senate Civil Service Committee.
